Call for better farm prices

Two local men testify at ag structure hearings

BY CURT HARLER

MT. JOY — A Mount Joy farmer and a representative of Pennsylvania Farmers Union testified Tuesday before the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Structure of Agriculture hearings.

Gerald N. Erb, R 3 Mount Joy, and Leonard Zemaitis, administrative director of the Pennsylvania Farmers Union, both agreed in seperate statements that farmers need fair prices for their products and that the family farm is of prime importance to American agriculture.

The hearing, held in Montpelier, Vermont, was one of 10 such seminars to be held before year's end around the nation.

U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland said the purpose of the hearings was to obtain suggestions and comments from farmers on the economic and social issues affecting the structure of American agriculture and rural life.

Erb, a dairy farmer, travelled to the hearings at his own expense.

He told the panel, "Agriculture is being undermined by inflation which is government-contrived through cheap money and social services.

"Land prices are being artificially stabilized to put value behind our dollar," he continued.

If land prices keep inflating with at the 16 percent rate forecast for 1980, the only one who will be able to afford land is government, he said.

Erb said less government is better government. He said the government's policy of cheap food and its ability to tolerate people who will not work for their daily bread is "a damnation upon all Americans."

He said, "The American dream is still there and always will be as long as there is a free America...the freedom of choice that my forefathers had callous hands, stooped shoulders, and died to preserve."

Erb pointed out that Uncle Sam has over three dozen financial programs available for farmers. He pointed to the number of social services in our society.

Local market strong despite Cross closing

LANCASTER — Livestock buyers expressed optimism Thursday that local markets would remain strong despite the loss of a major cattle buyer.

Those markets trended steady to higher at week's end despite the closing of Cross Bros. Meat Packers, Inc.

Observers had several theories to offer on why Cross Bros. closed.

Bernard Cross, president of Cross Bros., Inc., announced late Friday afternoon, November 16, that the company was ceasing slaughter operations.

Citing the increasing costs and limited supply of livestock available, Cross Bros. of Philadelphia closed their doors.

Operating since 1920, Cross Bros. was the last beef packer in Philadelphia.

In his November 16 press release, Mr. Cross noted in recent years all the beef packers located on the East Coast, with the exception of a few small companies, have closed due to inherent economics disadvantages of such operations in competing with the large slaughterhouses located in the midwest close to the source of supply.

Despite the closing of Cross Bros., a major Lancaster cattle buyer, the local market trended steady to higher the past two weeks.

Commenting on the affects of the Cross closing, John Stoudt of the Johnson Cattle Company noted that receipts are always light during this time of year.

"It will be four to five months before the actual affects will be known. By

Hear about saving farmland at Thursday evening meeting

LANCASTER — Farmland Preservation in Lancaster County for the 1980s will be the topic of an educational meeting scheduled for Thursday evening.

Roy A. Brubaker, Lititz, said the meeting will be held December 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the Auditorium of the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster.

Brubaker, chairman of the Farm and Home Foundation's educational committee, said the meeting will feature a panel discussion on the proposals presently being considered by county farmers.

First speaker on the panel will be John R. Ahlfeld, of the County Planning Commission. He will talk about coordination of land preservation efforts.

Amos H. Funk, R 1 Millersville, will outline the deed restriction approach to saving farm land.

This is the method by which farmers would insert a clause in their deed guaranteeing its use in agriculture for all time.

If a prime piece of farmland were to be sold for non-agriculutral use, the county would be allowed to purchase the property for $1 more than bid price, insert a restriction, and resell the land to the highest bidder.

Next panel member will be H.H. "Billy" Haverstick, Jr., Lancaster. He will outline his proposal for elimination of inheritance and capital gains taxes.

By eliminating the tax burden facing a family farmer there would be continued incentive for a farmer to remain in business rather than to sell out.

The inheritance tax often forces a farmer's heirs to sell land they would rather keep and farm. By eliminating the tax bite which forces the farm out of agriculture, this program would seek to keep farm land in agriculture without any legal ties.

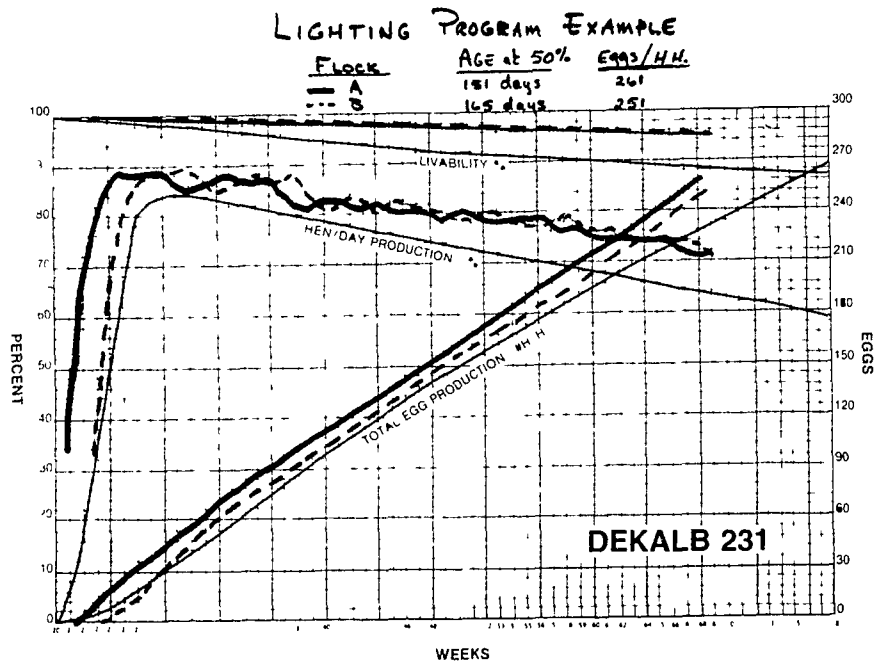
How much are 10 eggs worth?



Here's an example of what a proper lighting program can mean to you when you own a flock of DEKALBS. The two hen day production lines don't look much different. But the 2 week earlier maturity meant 10 more eggs. It also meant about 3½ lbs. less feed to 50% production. Make sure you're realizing the maximum potential from your layer flock.

At Pennfield, we formulate feeds and feeding programs with your profit in mind.

"All feed companies are alike."

If you believe that statement, you could be missing an opportunity to increase your output of eggs, pork or milk—without increasing your costs.

At Pennfield, our basic goal is to help our customers make more money. We believe we can accomplish this for you, too. For these reasons·

• Customized feeding programs. We specifically tailor a program to your operation, not to an "operation like yours."

• Nutritionally-superior feeds. We go a step beyond many conventional feeds. Our feeds have Optimum Nutrient Density (most profitable nutrient level per pound of feed) and contain high-quality protein for balanced amino acid nutrition.

• Quality in, quality out. We chemically analyze all incoming feed grains for pesticide residues and toxins... and all finished feeds for overall quality and nutrient content.

• Technical service. We're responsive to your needs—by phone or on your farm.

• A local company. We buy our feed grains locally; shipping savings are passed on to customers. Our feeding programs are developed based on local conditions. We do test work and field trials based on local conditions.

These and other Pennfield advantages are helping hundreds of new customers increase their profits. We can do the same for you. But you must take the first step by phoning or writing us. Do it today.

Omaha Cattle

November 29, 1979

WEEKLY 51 CATTLE: Midweek prices on slaughter steers were 50-1.00 lower, the greatest decline on consignments carrying substantial share yield grade 4. Heifers were mostly 50C lower. Cows closed firm to 50 cents higher and bulls were 1.00-3.00 higher.

Four day receipts 15,900; compared 11,700 three days previous holiday week; and 17,200 year ago.

Fed cattle prices came under rather persistent downward pressure following the Thanksgiving holiday as supplies expanded moderately and carcass prices turned sharply lower under generally light demand. Yield grade was a major price determining factor as the differential between yield grade 3 and yield grade 4 carcasses widened to as must as 12.00-13.00 per cwt. The overall finish of the steer and heifer supply was attractive with a liberal percentage Choice and moderate volume Choice and Prime, although many consignments were mixed 3 and 4 yield grades. Feeder buyers were not aggressive on two way steers as commodity board prices plunged sharply downward. Slaughter steers made up approximately 45 pct and heifers 30 pct. Cows contributed 10 pct and feeders 13 pct.

Lancaster Farming says...

Attend this important meeting

There's a meeting scheduled for this Thursday, December 6, that's more important than the county DHIA dinner, is bigger than the poultry banquet, will have more impact on the future of farming than the Future Farmers Convention.

The result of this session may determine whether dairymen will have a place to milk cows in Lancaster County, whether poultry odors can be outlawed in this area, whether there will be any farmers in the County's future.

If it all sounds a bit dramatic, it isn't.

The meeting is on Farm Land Preservation in Lancaster County for the 1980s.

And the simple fact is that if something does not come out of the proposals offered at this meeting, the future of agriculture in this county could join the American eagle on the endangered species list.

The meeting, sponsored by the Farm and Home Foundation of Lancaster County, is not going to be the final word on land use planning in the county. Rather, it is being set up to give farmers a chance to sort out the various proposals which have been advanced to help save our precious farmland.

The meeting will open with remarks by John Ahlfeld, Executive Director of the Lancaster County Planning Commission. He will outline the process of coordinating land preservation efforts.

Then three speakers will talk for 10 to 15 minutes, each on a specific proposal to save farmland.

Amos H. Funk, Millersville farmer, will talk about deed restrictions which would limit a property's use to farming alone. Legal framework for this plan is taking shape as Pennsylvania HB 1983.

H.H. "Billy" Haverstick, Jr., Lancaster, will outline his proposal to grant inheritance and capital gains tax relief to farmers and thus eliminate the exodus from farming of young men forced to sell the family farm to pay taxes .

David Landis, Lititz, will speak on the ag district approach where 12 or 15 farmers get together to form an agricultural area which would be free from nuisance ordinances and other anti-farming hassles

The entire presentation will be summarized briefly by County Agent Max Smith.

Best of all, meeting moderator Jay E Landis has set aside plenty of time for questions, answers, and discussion of all of the various proposals.

Which proposal is "best" for Lancaster County farmers?

By the end of the meeting every farmer in the County should have a clear idea of what the plusses and minuses are on each program.

No one plan has all of the answers. None is perfect. But all are heading along the road to the right goal—saving farmland.

Whether it's fixing a dead engine or stopping runaway loss of farmland, half of correcting any difficulty is defining the problem.

This meeting on farmland preservation will bring together the various people and groups which have been working so long towards saving our farms

While some proposals are farther along than others, nothing has yet been chiseled in stone.

Best aspect of all of these proposals is that they have been worked on by local people who are farmers, who know farming.

The alternatives to not attending this meeting are distasteful. watching the slow, cruel loss of our farmland to development; or being saddled with some unrealistic proposal by a well-meaning but ill-informed government agency.

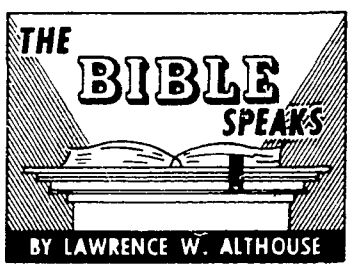
No farmer proud of his occupation, no one who considers himself a man of the land rather than a land speculator, can afford to miss the meeting.

None of the speakers has ever claimed to have 100 percent control of the situation. All admit their programs have loopholes, shortcomings

All are looking for those ideas which will bring Lancaster County a solid and worthwhile land use plan

Those ideas will come from the farmers who invest an hour or two of their time on Thursday so there can be a tomorrow for themselves, their children, their grandchildren.

Carpool with a neighbor. Be there the Farm Land Preservation meeting, December 6, 7:30 p m., at the Farm and Home Center on Route 72 just below Route 30.



MINIATURIZING CHRIST

Lesson for December 2, 1979

Background Scripture:
Colossians 1.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 40:21-26.

People never seem to lose their fascination for miniatures: miniature bottles, books, models, toys and what not. There is something in human nature that seems stimulated by the process of scaling things down in size, particularly to a size that is much more easily controlled and handled.

Some of that fascination seems to dominate some of our religious lives as well. At least part of the American nostalgia for "The Little Brown Church In The Wildwood" is in that it is 'little"! Little things we can keep in hand.

Image Of The Invisible

So it is with Christ. The Christ we find in some religious fellowships is obviously a "miniaturized Christ," a Christ scaled-down from cosmic proportions to one that fits nicely into our Lilliputian spiritual perceptions. Such a Christ can be easily identified with and limited to "our church." Several years ago for a period of months I had the opportunity to visit many different churches on Sunday mornings. I was frequently surprised to find proclaimed a "miniaturized Christ" who, it was implied, would be found exclusively in that particular church. I was reminded of the little boy who charged the neighborhood kids admission to come into his yard to see the eclipse.

There is nothing miniature about the Christ that Paul presents to the church at Colassae:

> "He is the image of the invisible God, the first-born of all creation; for in him all things were created, in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible... (1:15, 16).
> "He is before all things, and in him all things hold together...(1:17).

Paul's description is hardly that of a backyard Christ and the dimensions he outlines can best be described as nothing less than cosmic. When we look at Christ we see something infinitely more than a miniaturized glimpse of the Almighty. There can be nothing petty and trifling about a Christ who is before all things and in all things. Much as we might like to try, it is hard to keep such a Christ locked-up in our churches.

All The Fullness

When we are confronted with Christ, Paul is saying, we are confronted with nothing less than God himself: "For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell, and through him to reconcile to himself all things." (1:19,20). It is a cosmic Christ whose universal mission is intended, not to confirm our parochial views of the Almighty, but to reveal "all the fullness of God," and, in an age when many nit-pickingly divide the Kingdom into miniaturized religious townships, to reconcile all things to each other and himself.

TO CONTROL WEEDS IN ALFALFA

Have you been bothered with some of the winter-time weeds such as chickweed or shepherds purse in your alfalfa stands? If so, now would be a good time to apply a herbicide to knock out these weeds. Too many alfalfa growers wait until they see a heavy growth of these weeds and then think of spraying. All weeds are easier to kill when small and before they choke out the alfalfa plants. The period between Thanksgiving and Christmas is excellent for applying herbicides to alfalfa stands. The material to use will vary with the age of the stand and whether or not any grass is there as a companion crop. We suggest that growers refer to the Agronomy Guide, or to their local pesticide dealer for suggestions relating to materials. The important thing is to do the spraying while the weeds are small.

TO USE NEEDED FERTILIZER ELEMENTS

Fertilizer prices are rising and we suggest that farmers act now in order to reduce this production cost. A complete soil test now will reveal the exact fertilizer elements that are needed in a certain field for a particular crop. The idea of applying the same amount of the same analysis of fertilizer each year might help but is not the best way to get the most from your fertilizer dollars. Some fields may have sufficient amounts of potash, or be in excess of some elements; in these cases it is not economical to apply more of these same materials. With higher fertilizer costs we suggest that farmers do soil testing and then apply what is needed for each crop.

TO FOLLOW WITHDRAWAL REGULATIONS

The use of drugs and antibiotics may be needed in many cases with livestock and dairy production. Their use is quite common in many farm operations. However, the mis-use of these materials is what gets producers into trouble. When these items are administered to an animal the owner should be sure to read the label, or get directions, relating to the withdrawal period for milking cows, or time between treatment and slaughter for meat animals. This is only good common

When you shortchange their nutrition, you shortchange yourself.

Looking for ways to cut on down on out-of-pocket feed costs without cutting down on milk production?

Cutting production costs will backfire if you end up shortchanging your herd's nutrition in the process.

But you can cut those costs safely by feeding homegrown grains and grain silage fortified with the right Vigortone Dairy Pre-Mix. These potent pre-mixes contain the proper levels of vitamins, calcium, phosphorus, and other minerals needed to balance your farm's feedstuffs.

Vigortone Dairy Pre-Mixes can be mixed in or metered on any palatable grain or roughage. This lets you change ration content to fit the supplies you have on hand without risking herd performance.

Better herd nutrition means a bigger milk check Minimum out-of-pocket feed costs mean more in your pocket.

Your figures will prove it.

Dry cow nutrition pays future profits.

Shortchanging your dry cow's nutrition can be risky too. Most problems dairymen experience in getting cows back in the string can be traced to careless treatment during the dry period.

Keep them in top condition until their next lactation. To help you do it, Vigortone has developed unique dairy pre-mixes specially concentrated for dry cow rations.

Now is the time to compare.

Belsnickel Festival slated for December 1 and 2

BOYERTOWN - In the folklore of the Pennsylvania Dutch, the word "Belsnickel" was applied to a rather mean version of Santa Claus.

A neighborhood man would masquerade in old clothes, visit homes, first threatening the children with a switch and then giving them treats. This tradition has all but died out.

However, to the present day residents of Boyertown, the word Belsnickel represents the tri-part Festival of craft, art, and antique shows staged by the Boyertown Area Historical Society.

For the first time, all three shows will be held in the Boyertown Area Senior High School, 4th & Monroe Sts., Boyertown.

The Festival will begin with a craft show set for Friday, November 23rd, 12 to 8 and Saturday, November 24th, 10 to 5 in the dining room of the Senior High School.

The room will be crammed with local and regional craftsmen, displaying and demonstrating their wares. On view will be dolls, jewelry, pottery, wooden trays, macrame, dried arrangements, needlework, hooked rugs, leather items, scrimsaw, toleware puppets, paper cutting, decorated eggs, marquetry, ceramics, candles, stained glass, and tinsel painting.

The art show will be held the same dates and hours as the craft show in the corridors of the Boyertown Area Senior High School. As visitors proceed to the craft show, they will see oils, pastels, and watercolors created by local artists. Subjects range from portraiture to landscape to local scenes.

Refreshments will be available as well as copies of the Society's cookbook. Admission to these two shows is free.

The final segment of the Festival will be an antique show to be held the following weekend, Saturday, December 1, 1-9 p.m. and Sunday, December 2nd, 1-5 p.m. in the dining room of the Boyertown Area Senior High School.

This year the show will feature a display of antique toys on loan from members and friends of the Society. Trains, dolls, wooden toys, etc., from the late 1800's to the early 1950's will give visitors a chance to look at the Christmas delights of yesteryear.

The Belsnickel Festival has become a Boyertown tradition, and Society members hope that even more people will join for this year's Festival, the ninth one to be held in the community.

Muzzleloaders OK for southeast deer

HARRISBURG - Deer hunters in the special regulations area of southeastern Pennsylvania this year will be permitted for the first time in recent years to use flintlock muzzleloader rifles to take whitetails.

The Game Commission hopes that the firearms liberalization will help increase the harvest of a growing deer herd in the area.

From 1964 until last year, deer hunters in Delaware and parts of Bucks, Montgomery and Chester Counties were restricted to buckshot in shotguns. In 1978, the shotguns could also be loaded with single projectile ammunition.

This year, special regulations area deer hunters will also be able to use single barrel flintlock ignition long guns .44 caliber or larger with open iron sights propelling a single ball, in addition to buckshot or rifled slugs or punkin balls fired from a 20 gauge or larger shotgun. The flintlocks must have open iron sights.

Special regulations area trappers are also now permitted to use a .22 caliber rifle or handgun to dispatch animals caught in a trap.

Delaware looking for buyers cooperatives

NEWARK, Del. - The Extension Service is in the process of locating existing cooperative and buying clubs in Delaware in order to conduct a survey and case study for the Cooperative League Fund, Washington, D.C.

The purpose of the survey is (1) to determine the number of cooperatives in Delaware, (2) to identify some needs of existing cooperatives to more adequately serve families, (3) to determine if additional cooperatives are needed to serve Delaware citizens, and (4) to aid in providing data from Delaware to be used by the Cooperative League Bank Implementation Commission.

The results of the survey will determine the role the Land Grant Institutions in Delaware will play in providing technical assistance to consumer cooperatives.

Extension is in need of immediate information that will help in locating cooperatives and Buying Clubs, and urges all knowledgeable citizens to provide such information immediately by calling 302/856-5258 (Sussex), or 678-5157 (Kent and New Castle).

Those not familiar with cooperatives and legislation (PL 95-351) passed that will provide the establishment of the National Consumer Cooperative Bank may request further information from Betty Richardson, program development specialist, at 302/678-5157.

Berks farmer named to dairy committee

KUTZTOWN — Feryl Treichler, R 3 Kutztown, has been named the new Chairman of the Pennsylvania State Grange Dairy Committee.

Treichler has served for the past several years on the Dairy Committee and replaces Clifford Tinklepaugh in that position.

Treichler is a past master of the Virginville Grange and currently is the Pomona master of the Berks County Grange.

He has a 75 cow milking herd and farms the 325 acre Jayla Acres with his son Keith.

He has served as a Richmond Township supervisor, on the community committee of the county ASCS, is a member of the Reading Chamber of Commerce, belongs to the national and local Holstein clubs as well as the Red and White Association.

His son and daughter-in-law were runners-up in the National Grange Young Couple of the Year award this year.

Holstein triplets surprise Fritz family

Five weeks ago John Fritz (left) purchased a Holstein cow, Betsy, from his son, Gordon's (center) Smoketown Quality Dairy Sales.

To everyone's surprise the cow gave birth to triplets a few weeks later. The two females and one bull were born on the Fritz-Glen Farm, Woodland Drive, Lancaster. J. Harold Fritz, also John's son, helped bring the calves into the world. His wife, Doris, (right), is feeding the calves from a bottle.

Betsy, the proud mother, came from a dispersal sale in the New England States.

In Chickies Creek watershed

Extra cost sharing money helps farm operation

BY CURT HARLER

MANHEIM — Special federal funds have helped Allen and Wilmer Groff, R 4 Manheim, make some fairly impressive improvements around their dairy operation.

In addition to a pair of watering troughs which will provide all the drinking water their 70 cow Holstein herd needs, they have a brand new manure holding facility that will eliminate those daily trips over their fields with a spreader.

Part of the funding for the Groffs' project comes from special government funds available to farmers in the Chickies Creek watershed area.

The project, administered by Soil Conservation Service, was established to help improve hydrologic conditions in the watershed.

But for the Groffs, the project will make a big difference in their daily work routines

The two watering troughs are part of a spring development on the farm.

For years, Allen Groff recalls, the piece between the lane and the barn was wet

"It used to be all swamp here," he says.

The Groffs, with help from Scott Eberly of the Soil Conservation Service, drained the area and put in a holding tank uphill from the present location of the two troughs.

Two lines run out of the holding tank, one to each of the watering troughs.

SCS figures a healthy dairy cow needs about 25 gallons fresh water a day. For a beef animal the figure is about 15 gallons.

Groffs knew they would have no problem with sufficient water for the troughs.

Estimated minimum production for the lower trough is 5000 gallons per day. The upper waterer will produce something over half of that amount.

"I don't think we'll ever run out of water," Wilmer says.

The only problem they encountered was a thick formation of algae which developed around the tanks within two weeks time.

"We emptied the tank, removed the algae, and put a piece of copper tubing about two feet long in the bottom of the tank.

"That cleaned it up fine," Allen says.

Because they have just completed the renovation work the area around the watering troughs is still muddy. But they intend to seed the area this spring.

The upper trough, to the south of the lane, is the lighter producer. It will be used for dry cows.

The lower trough, on the other side of the lane, will serve the milking herd.

All of the cows, and the Groffs as well, will be served by the manure handling pit behind the barn.

The holding area is designed to handle all waste from the 70 cow herd for about 200 days.

Its overall dimensions at the base are 50 by 60 feet. It is eight feet deep at the center.

There is allowance for an extra foot of freeboard in case the pit should become full just before a major storm, or some other problem would prevent timely emptying of the contents.

Behind the barn where the pit is located formerly was just a steep slope, always wet, which ran down and away from the buildings.

Groffs built a high retaining wall at the downhill side of the pit and ran interceptor lines above the holding area to drain off the groundwater.

SCS's Eberly was surprised when they did tests to

(Turn to Page 17)

Water troughs from the Groff's spring development project will provide water both for dry cows here and for the milking herd in another pasture.

Behind Wilmer, left, and Allen Groff is their new 225,000 gallon manure holding pit. It will provide storage for 200 days waste from 70 cows.

Two proposals pending to boost promo funds

ALEXANDRIA, Va. — Two separate proposals are before the Middle Atlantic Milk Marketing Area's Order 4 to change the rate of contribution for dairy promotion.

On behalf of four of its member-cooperatives that supply the majority of the milk regulated under Order 4, a federation of cooperative associations proposed that the funding rate for the advertising and promotion program be increased from 7 cents to one percent of the producer pay price.

Another cooperative proposed that the deduction for advertising and promotion be increased to three-quarters of one percent of the average of the monthly weighted average prices for the twelve-month period ending September 30, rounded to the nearest whole cent (three-quarters of one percent of the producer pay price).

The resulting figure would be the funding rate for the following calendar year.

Proponents of both levels of increased funding contended that the program has contributed to an increase in Class I sales during various periods and has minimized declining sales during times of rising milk prices.

It was their position, however, that the current funding rate is no longer adequate because inflation has caused the cost of the advertising and promotion activities to rise significantly faster than the program's resources.

They also contended that inflation has caused a reduction in the amount of advertising and promotion and, thus, has reduced the effectiveness of the program.

The Order 4 advertising and promotion agency disburses the bulk of its available funds through Dairy Council, Incorporated and the United Dairy Industry Association.

A spokesman for DCI presented information at the hearing regarding the Council's organizational structure, its activities and its need for additional funds to operate a more effective program.

During its 60 years of operation, DCI has provided nutritional education, including the support of milk and milk products, to consumers and professional leaders in medicine, education, nutrition, communications and the dairy industry. This has been accomplished through the use of films, radio, literature, personal contact and a staff of nutritionists.

In recent years DCI's primary source of support in the Middle Atlantic area has been Order 4 dairy farmers. The Council's witness stated that per capita funding has increased 13.6 percent since 1977.

During this same period, however, inflation has eroded the buying power of these funds by 17 percent.

While the cost of films, literature, and labor have increased, the demand for DCI's services have not slackened.

Over 600,000 people saw Dairy Council films in 1978. The distribution of National Dairy Council technical publications doubled between 1976 and 1978.

In 1978, DCI distributed over a million pieces of this literature, 93 percent free of charge.

The spokesman for DCI concluded his statement by noting that it has become more and more difficult to maintain a qualified staff unless wage levels and employee benefit progress at rates similar to competing organizations. He indicated that since people are the backbone of the Dairy Council program, increased funding is essential.

At the proponent's request, a representative of UDIA presented data in support of the federation's proposed funding rate. These data indicate that from 1972 to 1978 inflation has been rapid, with the Consumer Price Index increasing 56 percent.

The witness stated that in the Middle Atlantic area the cost of media advertising, particularly television advertising, has increased significantly faster than producer milk prices. It was estimated that by the end of 1979 television advertising costs will have increased 125 percent over 1974 costs.

He further testified that while the cost of scientific research has been increasing, UDIA has been forced to decrease the actual dollars spent in this area. When adjusted by the CPI, only about half as many dollars are available for research in 1979 as were available when the program began in 1972.

Proponent of the funding rate equal to three-quarters of one percent of the producer pay perice contended that the current rate is no longer generating revenues adequate to sup-find the ground was relatively dry just two feet below the surface. It made the design task easier and assured the Groffs that they could go ahead with a holding area without the worry of having their storage fill up from an underground water source.

A waterway diverts ground water away from the holding area.

The roof drains are connected into the tile drain system so there is no added pressure on the manure pit.

Manure is scraped out the lower end of the barn with a skid loader. A concrete slide is located below the apron where the manure is pushed out.

The slide was put in to make sure the important downhill side of the retaining wall would not erode from the constant sliding of manure from the barn.

Wilmer says the manure moves easily to the deep middle of the pond and he has noted no problem with it piling up below the push-off ramp.

When the Groffs get their milkhouse put in, the manure holding area also will handle all milkhouse waste.

With a total volume of 30,000 cubic feet, or roughly 225,000 gallons, the storage should have no problem handling the extra.

Since the Groffs use only sawdust for bedding they anticipate no trouble with long hay or straw in the system.

They have a concrete ramp on the uphill side of the manure storage which leads down into the pit.

They expect to get a three point hitch agitator in for emptying their pond.

This will allow them to agitate, will eliminate the need for a vacuum pump, and will permit them to leave the spreader tank at the top of the ramp rather than go to the struggle of hauling it uphill, fully loaded, every time they want to make another trip.

The manure holding facility has been in only for a few weeks and to date they have less than a month's manure in it.

The late fall has helped to some degree. Grass they planted to hold the sides of the slope began to show green earlier in the week—and that means less problem with any runnoff into Chickies Creek.

The Groff farm sits on the far Western edge of the Chickies Watershed.

In fact, the water which drains down one side of the lane goes into the Chickies; water on the far side of the garage goes into the Conestoga.

Since the government was considering a flood control project along the Chickies they made extra funds available for projects in the area which would help improve the water quality.

Scott Eberly, left, from the Soil Conservation Service, and Wilmer Gorff are on the access ramp to the new manure facility. At the far corner of the barn is the scraping apron just in front of the lower retaining wall. This area formerly was a steep, wet, slope dropping into the background.

In the past two years a total of $27,000 has been available for use just in the 23 square mile area designated as part of the Chickies Creek watershed.

This money is in addition to the cost sharing funds available for use elsewhere in Lancaster County. And the rate is slightly higher.

Farmers are allowed 80 percent sharing for high priority projects and 40 percent for lower priority projects.

All funds for this year have been allocated.

On December 17 more money should become available for use through the regular county program.

Whether more watershed money will be available to Chickies Creek area farmers will have to await developments.

But for the Groffs and the government, the money is well spent. The Chickies Creek watershed will be a bit less prone to runnoff problems and the Groffs will be in a better position to keep their cows, and themselves, contented.

Janet Pifer wins 4-H clothing scholarship

REYNOLDSVILLE — A 19-year-old Pennsylvania girl, who made a three-piece man's suit for under $30, has been named one of six national winners in the 4-H clothing program.

Janet Pifer, Route 3, Box 86A, Reynoldsville, received a $1,000 scholarship during the 58th National 4-H Congress in Chicago No. 25-29.

Janet M. Pifer

Selected by the Cooperative Extension Service, the six winners were presented their awards by Coats & Clark Inc., sponsor of the clothing program.

Pifer, daughter of Mrs. Lois Pifer, is a sophomore at Indiana University of Pennsylvania and plans a career as a home economist.

The Jefferson County girl, an 11-year 4-H member, said the project of making a man's suit for her 18-year-old brother, Brian, helper her learn how to properly fit men's clothing. She said the suit would cost about $80 in a store.

Pifer has learned how to design her own clothing and earlier this summer created an expensive-looking woman's raincoat for under $20 that she said would have cost about $80 if purchased ready-made.

The 4-H'er said that clothing designing "gives me a chance to use my creativity and sewing knowledge."

She has learned to buy good quality fabric on sale, and invested in pressing equipment, as well as a high quality sewing machine.

Pifer said that she makes about 90 percent of her own clothing, as well as some clothing for her two brothers and four sisters.

A teen leader in the local 4-H sewing club for the past four years, she started a new sewing club that has 15 members.

She also has been a member of the 4-H clothing judging team and last year won first place in individual competition at the district level.

Her other projects have included leadership, health photography, food-nutrition bicycle and conservation of national resources.

The 4-H awards program is arranged by National 4-H Council.

Local farmer named to Grange Ag committee

NOTTINGHAM — Jesse Wood, R 2 Nottingham, has been named the new chairman of the Pennsylvania State Grange's Agriculture Committee.

The Lancaster Countian will have responsibility for administering the Grange's agricultural policy making procedure for the coming year.

State Grange Master Charles Wismer said he thinks Wood will do a good job in the position because of Wood's background in agriculture and his experience in local politics.

He has served for three years on the Lancaster County Farmers Home Administration committee, and was chairman of the Community Committee of the ASCS.

He has served on the State Grange Agriculture Committee since 1974.

In local government he currently is serving on the Lancaster County Area Refuse Authority. He is the sewerage enforcement officer for Little Britain Township.

Wood has 400 acres in crops on his home farm.

The new Legislative Committee Chairman is a Washington County dairyman.

Vernon Cox, West Alexander, also brings to his new position a wide range of experience in activities off his 500 acre farm.

He is a Milk Marketing Inc. delegate, and a member of the Pittsburgh Food and Nutrition Dairy Council.

He has been a member of the Washington County Extension Executive Committee for 12 years. He also has served on local ASCS committees.

Cox also has been a member of the Grange's legislative and dairy committees.

Land loss meeting set for Carlisle

CARLISLE - The impact of agricultural land losses upon the nations ability to produce food and fiber will be discussed at a public workshop, scheduled for December 4th and 5th at the Embers Motel, Carlisle.

Representatives of public interest groups, local governments and other concerned citizens are encouraged to participate in the session.

Starting time for both sessions is 9 a.m. with group discussions starting in the afternoon of December 4th and ending on December 5th.

District Conservationist Joel Myers, with the Soil Conservation Service in Dauphin County, explained the meetings are being held in 17 states.

Myers said participants will be asked to share their view points on:

Problems resulting from increased competition for agricultural land.

Values that are threatened by current trends in the availability of agricultural land.

Ways to avoid or mitigate the most important problems cited.

Myers concluded by saying that this workshop is a timely opportunity for the agriculturalists, urban and rural citizens, environmentalists, as well as civic and political leaders to have a necessary "meeting of the minds". Livestock judges end season at national contest

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — This year's all-girl Maryland 4-H livestock judging "A" team placed tenth in a record-large field of 35 state teams during national 4-H competition on November 13 at the North American Livestock Exposition in Louisville, Ky.

The Mayland team's total of 2,021 points was 140 points better than the socre attained by last year's Maryland 4-H team, which also finished tenth in the national 4-H livestock judging contest.

This year's team total would easily have been good enough to win the 1978 national contest, according to William A. Curry, team coach. Curry is an Extension livestock specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park.

The Maryland 4-H livestock judges continued a tradition of doing well in sheep competition, placing fifth in that category. The team was also fifth in oral reasons. It placed ninth in swine judging and sixteenth in beef cattle placings.

The same Maryland 4-H team placed third on November 7 in the twentieth annual junior livestock judging contest during the Keystone International Livestock Exposition at Harrisburg, Pa.

Karen Holloway, 16, of Darlington (Harford county) was second high individual in over-all standings at Harrisburg. She also placed second in beef cattle judging and third in sheep. Her cousin, Teresa Holloway, 17, also of Darlington, was fifth in sheep judging.

Andrea McGuirk, 17, of Bel Air (Harford county) placed fourth in beef cattle judging at Harrisburg.

Assistant coach for this year's Maryland 4-H livestock judging team was G. Timothy Dyson of Crofton, an Extension 4-H and youth agent in Anne Arundel county.

Meetings slated to review land and water resource study

LANCASTER — The Lancaster Area Land and Water Resources Study has been underway since April, 1979. This month, two meetings have been scheduled to review the progress of the study.

This past Spring, the Lancaster County Commissioners joined the Lancaster County Conservation District in asking the U.S. Department of Agriculture to conduct the study in order to:

—help integrate land and water conservation.
—identify and analyze demands for prime agricultural land.
—develop options to improve water quality, reduce erosion and sedimentation and provide storm water management.
—protect prime agricultural land.

The study began with an extensive inventory and mapping of soils, topography, streams, transportation systems and land use of the area. It also included a detailed economic analysis of the County.

Through analysis of data gathered through the use of computer information, the study will eventually cover the county's potential economic growth and means of achieve it, its environment and quality of life, and the best alternatives of economic and environmental strategies. These alternatives will stress options for Lancaster County's future.

After the study is completed, local officials will have a comprehensive and thorough evaluation of the natural resources of the Lancaster area.

All options presented by the study will be implemented only through decisions of the local governing bodies and citizens.

sense that these regulations should be followed. To short-cut the period of time is ony jeopardizing the product and the entire farming business. Don't be guilty of taking chances and getting food products into trouble. Also, be sure to keep accurate record of all treatments. In cases where excess tolerances are found, it might save you many dollars.

TO STORE SPRAY MATERIALS

On most farms the spraying season is over for this year. What have you done with your excess pesticides? I fear that too many farmers still have opened bags or containers on the barn floor or in the garage. These materials are dangerous to children, pets, and to farm animals. We urge producers to keep the left-overs in the original container in order to maintain identification. Also, we strongly urge that all spray materials be stored in a separate building, or separate room or shed. In this way, there is less danger of poisoning or mistaken identity. Practice safety with all spray materials.

Letters to the Editor

Your editorial on the Pennsylvania National Horse show has placed a finger on a problem with which the Board of Directors is gravely concerned, namely, attendance by non-exhibitors at the Show.

Several changes have been made at the Show in order to attract more non-exhibitors.

Additionally, we nearly doubled our public relations budget this last year, have retained a new public relations firm, and for the first time in a number of years, have spend a considerable amount of money on an outstanding attraction, the Mounties.

While there are a considerable amount of seats to be sold in that arena, we did nearly double the attendance by the general public at this year's Show compared with that in 1978.

We attracted substantially more booth holders, sold more advertising in the program, had approximately 200 more horses in attendance, and were able to substantially increase class sponsorships.

Nevertheless, as your editorial correctly points out, we still have a long way to go.

We intend to keep trying.

James W. Hagar, President
Penn National Horse Show Assn.

Congratulations on the new policy of publishing the new House Bills that will have an effect on all Pennsylvania farmers.

Your publication will alert farmers to contact their state congressman for support the bills they favor and non-support of those they oppose.

Farmers will also be advised of the bills that become laws.

Commercial red meat production on increase

HARRISBURG — Commercial red meat production in Pennsylvania during October totaled 98.4 million pounds, up eight percent from a year earlier.

Cattle slaughter at 71,900 head was down seven percent while calf slaughter at 23,700 head dropped 23 percent. Hog slaughter at 332,700 head jumped 25 percent from October 1978. Sheep and lamb slaughter at 15,600 head was 36 percent greater than last year.

Nationally, commercial red meat production during October totaled 3.56 billion pounds, six percent greater than October 1978. Beef production at 1.94 billion pounds was down eight percent and veal output at 37 million pounds was down 23 percent. Pork production totaled 1.55 billion pounds, up 32 percent. The 9.10 million head killed was up 33 percent. This was a record high number for a one month period exceeding the 8.99 million hogs killed in March 1971. Lamb and mutton production declined four percent to 26 million pounds.

125 bu. vats per acre with no fertilizer except seed treatment and lime. Much less or no bugs and diseases. Bugs are scavengers. They don't like healthy crops. Our Organic Program really works. It's natural. That is why. BX soil bacteria gets better nitrogen out of the air than most farmers buy at a high price. Better yields with half the fertilizer bills.

Only Soft Rock Posphate and BX has made outstanding yields. It is the answer for livestock farmers who have plenty potash. The phospate is only $80 per ton plus spreading or $90 in bags. with our greatly improved liquid soil conditioner called National Ag Soil Treatment. It breaks the hard pan, mellows top soil and subsoil and lets the water down, often times in a month. Applied in the fall will let you plow earlier in the spring. Aerated soil is also warmer, better germination. Some say they can plow in a higher gear. Carries a money back guarantee if you can't see results, and the price is much cheaper per gallon than it's predecessors. $48 per gallon treats 10 acres. We are distributors, looking for dealers in other areas. Results are so fast, definite and obvious that it will sell easy very soon.

Legislative roundup

Rural power bills may jump $200 if gross receipts tax stays

BY DICK WANNER

HARRISBURG — Even as the echoes of the 1977 budget war were fading from the halls of the Capitol Building in Harrisburg, there were some last minute skirmishes going on.

One of those skirmishes resulted in the hurried enactment by the General Assembly and signing by Governor Shapp of a law imposing a 4.5-percent gross receipts tax on all electrical power produced in Pennsylvania for export to another state.

According to some observers, the law was an ill-conceived measure designed more for expedience than income. The legislators were eager to prove that they could solve the budget impasse. A tax on electricity flowing out of state added more dollars to the income side of the ledger without subtracting anything from the pockets of Pennsylvanians.

At least that was the theory.

In fact, the state hasn't collected a nickel from the gross receipts tax since it was enacted.

Baltimore Gas and Electric Co. has had the law tied up in courts since it was put on the books. The tax monies are not even being held in escrow, because it seems that nobody in state government ever expects to collect on the tax.

So far, nobody in or out of Pennsylvania seems to have been affected very much by the gross receipts tax. Utilities and power commissions in New York, New Jersey, Maryland and West Virginia considered the law an unneighborly cut, of course, but with the law tied up in court the tax has so far not added any burden to the consumers of electricity in those states.

The hastily-devised measure seems about to backfire, though, here in Pennsylvania. If it does, some 150,000 customers of the Pennsylvania Rural Electric Association will be paying from $100 to $200 more per year for electricity.

William Logan, a PREA spokesman in Harrisburg, said Thursday that the cooperative is buying nearly half its electricity from the Niagara Power Corporation, which is controlled by the Power Authority of the State of New York.

Niagara Power is cheap, Logan said. Although the falls provide 45-percent of the co-op's electricity, Niagara accounts for only 19-percent of the power cost.

New York's Governor Carey was unhappy with the gross receipts tax, and while he didn't cut the lines from Niagara to Pennsylvania, he's got his hand on the switch handle. That switch could open at a moment's notice, and may open on Dec. 20, according to Logan.

"Utilities in other states, Connecticut, Massachusetts, even Vermont, would love to have some of the Niagara power that we're getting," Logan pointed out.

"If we don't repeal the gross receipts tax bill by Dec. 20, then those states will begin getting some of the power now coming to us. We'll have to make up that power loss by buying from more expensive sources, and our members' costs will go up."

There is a measure in the Pennsylvania Senate right now that would appeal the tax. House Bill 852 passed in the House on October 29 by a vote of 143 to 48, and, according to Logan, has good prospects for passage in the Senate and for signing by the Governor before the December 20 deadline imposed by the New York power authority.

But it will be a squeaker.

Returnable Containers

Another hot bill in the legislative hopper, according to the Pennsylvania Grange's David Weinstock, is a bill which would require deposits on all beverage containers. These would include soft drinks, beer, mineral waters and similar drinks, but would not include fruit juices.

The Grange strongly supports House Bill 1338, a measure modeled after beverage container laws already in force in Michigan and Oregon.

Grangers support the move, Weinstock said, because roadside litter is a major cause of damage to farm equipment, especially to tractor tires which now cost in the neighborhood of $300 to $400 each.

Some livestock have suffered from litter - one Pennsylvania cow bled to death after eating broken glass - but the big factor here is equipment damage.

Michigan's law has been in effect for only a year, Weinstock noted, but roadside litter along major [illegible] has dropped from 200 containers per mile before the law was passed, to just 40 containers per mile. And more than two-thirds of the containers now littering Michigan roadsides were dropped by out-of-staters, Weinstock said.

The law has affected jobs in the Michigan's glass industry. A major plant there did lay off some workers, but a new aluminum plant built near Detroit to recycle returnable aluminum cans resulted in the creation of 800 new jobs.

Capital stock tax

House Bill 1608 is on the House calendar for this year, and could make it through the legislature by the end of '79. If passed, it would exempt incorporated family farms from the annual 1-percent capital stock tax now levied on a number of other incorporated businesses.

Already exempt are manufacturers, banks and insurance companies.

Gasohol moving along

One gasohol bill, House Bill 1011, is well along towards becoming law, and could see the Governor's signature in the next few weeks. HB 1011 would allow farmers to produce gasohol for on-farm use without

Rotary club tours Atlantic Breeder's new center

LANCASTER — As an effort to improve agriculture - industry relations, the Lancaster Rotary Club met in the new Atlanic Breeders Cooperative building on November 28.

Approximately 175 Rotary Club members attended the catered dinner held in the future semen storage room of the new Marketing / Distribution Center.

This new center, completely separated from the main ABC buildings, is nearing completion. Towards the end of this month, the semen tanks and new offices will be moved to the two story, masonry constructed building.

The Rotary Club visit was coordinated by the agri-business committee and Max Smith, county agent in cooperation with the ABC.

Rotary members had the opportunity to tour the entire paying the $2500 license fee now levied on distillers of beverage alcohol.

A whole raft of other gasohol bills are being held in various committees, pending study.

Fee simple highway land

Both the House and Senate now have passed a bill which would empower PennDOT to buy outright agricultural land it needs for highway rights of way. The bill had the support of the Pennsylvania Farmer's Association, but had not won the favor of the Grange.

The Governor is expected to put his name to the measure, since he has favored the concept from the start.

Co-op audits

Senate Bill 756 passed the House this week. If enacted, it would exempt Pennsylvania farmer cooperatives from outside audits if their annual gross sales are less than $100,000.

The smaller co-ops would still need to have their books audited, but the auditing committee could be composed entirely of co-op members.

At least two of the auditors, though, would have to be people who were not officers of the co-op being audited.

Local men

"This all is leading to socialism if not kept in perspective," he said.

"Some farmers are expected to live on depreciation and borrow with their land as collateral to replace it," he said.

"This cycle accumulates more debt. More debt means higher cost to the consumer and on the inflation sprial goes.

"This treadmill will eventually bankrupt the producer and the consumer alike and we both make up America," Erb told the panel.

"The farmer needs a fair return on his labor and investment in order to keep supply available to the people and still stay financially solvent," he said.

"Once the farmer is no longer financially solvent he must produce whether he is making a profit or not, or sell out, or be a tenant on land that he and his forefathers once owned," he said.

"When a man must work to pay just interest, this is bondage," he said.

He pointed out that nothing is free. He said it is up to the American people to decide what they want.

"Cheap fuel means no fuel. I think we all got a taste of that.

"As for myself and my family, give me the opportunity to economic freedom at what I do best, farming, or you may have it all at a public sale, except my land. That the government will have to take," Erb said.

Zemaitis, who was substituting for Forney Longenecker, Lititz, who was in Akron, Ohio at a Young Farmers meeting, was among the first group of four to speak.

He emphasized the need for family farm agriculture and a good profit for family farmers.

"We do not look at this dialogue as a debate on the kind of agricultural structure we should have," he said.

"In our view, the family farm is the clear and accepted choice of the American people, spelled out on repeated occasions by the Congress over a period of almost 200 years," Zemaitis said.

He questioned whether existing policies are effectively achieving what was intended by Congress.

He pointed out the number of Federal Laws which have been written to boost the family farm system of agriculture.

"Unfortunately, for too much of the time, it has merely been a paper commitment. A statutory policy on family farm agricultural structure becomes meaningful only as it is effectively administered and implemented," he said.

The PFU representative decried the tendency over the years to demand development of new programs when a particular farm program or set of programs has not been effective.

He used as an example the question of land ownership, control, and tenancy.

He pointed out a number of states have enacted laws to control corporate or alien ownership of farmland. He said PFU has opposed investment schemes like the Ag-Land Trust which would have tended to separate farm ownership and farm operation in a detrimental way.

He said Farmers Union has called attention repeatedly that the selling price of farm land is almost totally unrelated to the earning power of the land when used for farming.

"We are convinced that all of these problems associated with land ownership and control could be soluble by a more direct approach—simply by maintaining farm prices and income at stable and satisfactory levels," Zemaitis said.

It is low farm prices which bar beginners from farming, he told the panel.

It is low farm prices which create the pressure for farms to get constantly larger.

It is low farm prices and inflated land prices which invite off-farm investors, aliens and corporations to bid for farmland to the disadvantage of both established or entering farmers.

It is low farm prices which result in a situation in which only about one-third of today's farmers own all the land which they farm, he said.

"What we are saying," he continued, "is that the problems of agriculture associated with land ownership and control are basically economic in nature—we would probably not need special legislation to control land ownership or to facilitate entry into farming if farming itself were a fully viable enterprise."

Listening to five minutes of testimony each from Erb, Zemaitis, and other farmers and farm-related people from the northeast were Bergland, Assistant Agriculture Secretary Carol T. Foreman, and State Agriculture Secretaries Roger Barber of New York, William Darrow of Vermont, and Fred Winthrop of Massachusetts.

The speakers were subjected to off-the-cuff questions from those listening.

Bergland asked Erb if he thought the government could help the farmer by taking some of the risk off the farmer's shoulders.

"If I'm guaranteed a future, free enterprise is gone," Erb replied.

He agreed there was a need for stability. Erb said he felt the consumer should be guaranteed a product, but not a product at a price.

Both Erb and Zemaitis said they originally went to the meeting fearing it could be some sort of political show.

Both said they felt Bergland and the government were truely concerned with agriculture.

"They seemed concerned about the mood of the people, the family farm, and what is coming," Erb said.

"I really thought Bergland was sincere," Zemaitis said. "He sounded like he really was asking for solutions."

Two further hearings were held this past week.

The first was Wednesday at Fayetteville, North Carolina. The second was held in Huntsville, Alabama on Thursday.

The next scheduled forum on agriculture's future is set for this coming Tuesday in South Sioux City, Nebraska.

Rotary Club

Atlantic Breeders facilities, including the bull barns, research area and present storage rooms.

The present storage rooms contains three million units of semen. Additional storage tanks will be purchased and capacity increased as the tanks are moved to the larger new center.

According to Roger Gundlach, of ABC, the main advantage of the new building is the separation of the bull barns and semen storage.

In case of a disaster, the separation spreads the risk of the entire Cooperative's facilites being destroyed.

Gundlach also noted that this new center will provide the first additional office space since the original building was constructed in 1950.

Atlantic Breeders has concentrated on production in previous years.

According to Gundlach, the Rotary Club's visit "was real educational, and improved relationships with county businessmen."

American Breeder's Cooperative plans to have an open house of all facilities, including the new Marketing / Distribution Center, during the Pennsylvania Farm Show week, January 7 - 10.

They are encouraging the public and vocational agriculture students to attend. Guided tours will be available each day between the hours of 10a.m. and 8p.m. D.S.

Agricultural exports account for more than a million jobs. For every billion dollars in farm exports, some 50,000 jobs are created.

Texan fined $2500 for smuggling birds

HOUSTON, Tex. - James McKinley "Shon" Ross, Jr., of Houston, Texas, was fined $2500 for smuggling 140 finches into the United States from Canada for commercial purposes, according to officials of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Ross was also given a five-year suspended sentence, placed on five years probation and prohibited from engaging in any transactions involving the buying and selling of birds during the five-year period.

The smuggled birds were discovered Oct. 13, 1977, when Ross, who at the time was operating a commercial bird establishment in Baltimore, Md., drove from Quebec, Canada, to the port of Champlain, N.Y.

During an inspection there, officials of the U.S. Customs Service discovered the birds in three cardboard boxes underneath a suitcase in the trunk of Ross' vehicle. They seized the vehicle and the birds, which were subsequently valued at about $800.

On Sept. 25, 1979, Ross pleaded guilty to the charge of smuggling, a violation of customs' regulations. Charges involving the absence of required import papers were later dropped by the U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Texas.

Since birds can carry diseases that affect the nation's food supply, all commercial bird shipments into the United States must undergo a minimum 30-day quarantine in private facilities licensed and approved by the department's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service.

Beginning Jan. 15, personally owned birds brought into the country by individuals will also be quarantined in federal facilities.

Serve fresh fruits

YORK - This holiday season, offer plenty of low calorie fresh fruit along with your other festive foods. That's a suggestion from York County Extension home economist, Marceil A. Seckman.

A generously filled fruit bowl with a cluster of grapes spilling over the top is a handsome and appealing centerpiece. It invites nibbling and the fruit is low in calories as well as good tasting. Eating liberal amounts of fruit also provides desirable dietary fiber.

Try a light fruit salad with a platter of open-face sandwiches for busy day meals. Or use fruit with cold meat and hot biscuits for entertaining.

Adapt traditional recipes by using low calorie ingredients in place of those containing lots of calories. Serve cakes with fruit topping instead of the usual sugar frosting.

Highest-priced sheep shown at Louisville

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - The price of just about everything has soared during the past few years. But, occasionally bargains can still be found.

Take the price of lamb, for example. Your local butcher will sell you a pound of lamb chops or boneless lamb shoulder for $3.99. Lambs on foot, however, are a different story.

The world's first $100,000 ram made an appearance at the sixth annual North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE) in Louisville. Appropriately named Pacesetter, half interest in the yearling ram has been sold by owners Bill and Jim Heggemeier of Kirkland, Illinois, to Olsen Brothers of Spanish Fork, Utah.

Pacesetter, who comes from a long line of Suffolk champions, is a winner in his own right. He was named Grand Champion at last year's NAILE Suffolk Show as a ram lamb. The 18-month-old ram took first place honors at the Denver Stock Show, the Ft. Worth Stock Show and the Grand National Livestock Show at the Cow Palace.

Bill Heggemeier, who raised the world's highest-priced sheep, says Pacesetter is worth every cent of his $100,000 price tag. "The ram is big and correct, and comes from a fine line of Suffolk champions," he said.

Also in the barn of the NAILE is Vegas, a yearling Suffolk valued at $90,000. He's owned by Mike Nelsh and a score of shareholders from Urbana, Ohio. Nelsh bought the ram at a sale in Ohio, where the bidding on Vegas opened at $25,000. He paid $90,000 for the Suffolk, retained half-interest and sold the rest in share portions.

Vegas, and his $90,000 value, achieved notoriety in the NAILE barn when his ear was sliced while one of his owners attempted to trim his fleece. He took seven stitches in his left ear from Dr. Newell Hicks, official veterinarian of the NAILE. "It doesn't matter how much he cost," Hicks said, "his ear stitched just like a $5 ram."

Janney takes veterinary science award

BRODBEKCS - Charla Janney, R1 Brodbecks, has been named one of the six national winners in the 4-H veterinary science program.

The award was provided by The Upjohn Company, sponsor of the 4-H veterinary science program. Winners were selected by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Janney is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin Janney. A 4-H member for seven years, the York County student is in her freshman year at Pennsylvania State University, york, where she is preparing for a veterinary career.

The winner recently completed a 4-H project in which she taught veterinary science to 15 younger members. She conducted intensive research into Haemonchus contortus larva, a harmful parasite that infests sheep, and turned her research into an exhibit which won second place in the zoology division at the local science fair

Charla Janney

A dedicated community worker, Janney has worked with handicapped children and with the elderly resident sof Homewood Retirement Center. She participates each year in the Jefferson Health Fair.

She has served as president of the 4-H Lamb Club, the Jefferson Community Club, the York County Council and the South Western F.F A. chapter.

"These positions have given me many hectic moments but the skills of leading, organizing and instructing groups has been terrific," the winner says.

She has traveled to five other states in sheep and livestock judging competition. This year she was elected a member of the National Suffolk Sheep Association board of directors which carries with it the responsibility of serving as a director of the Junior Association.

Group opposes using highway dollars for gasohol

HARRISBURG — "Highway user revenues should not be used as tax credits for the production and sale of gasahol in Pennsylvania Although we need viable sources of motor fuels, we cannot afford to deplete already diminishing road tax revenues."

This was the statement made Tuesday by George B. Searle, president of the Associated Pennsylvania Constructors in commenting on several legislative proposals made to the General Assembly for the use of gasahol Searle pointed out that "Our Association favors any practical solution to our fuel-needs problems, but not at the expense of the diminished funds necessary to take care of the state's 45,000 mile road system.

Because the General Assembly enacted only two-thirds ($165 million) of the needed minimum ($202 million) to maintain the worn out roads and bridges all over this Commonwealth, we can ill afford the reduce what is presently available from user fees, and taxes," he said.

"We would be traveling an ill-fated journey to take from a vital fund to provide incentives for the production and sale of gasahol. There are other revenue sources that are not in an endangered state that could be used for such credit purposes," he said.

The highway industry association's head explained that a lack of adequate funds had brought about a "highway crisis" that has not, as yet, been alleviated

" We should first provide sufficient funds for the highway system we have in place, before we consider new money-switching schemes that would only result in more worn-out and unsafe roads and bridges," Searle emphasized.

Associated Pennsylvania Constructors is a statewide association of companies in the heavy and highway construction industries

Lebanon County FFA initiates Greenhands

FREDERICKSBURG - The Lebanon County initiation for the Greenhand and Chapter Farmer F.F.A. Degrees was held at the Northern Lebanon High School. The County F.F.A. officers conducted the Chapter Farmer Degree Ceremony for 48 Greenhands who were eligible for the degree.

Mike Bare, Lisa Weikel, Marilyn Deaven, Douglas Blauch, Mark Brehm, Daniel Miller and Keith Fake conducted the Greenhand Degree ceremony and inducted 75 new members into the F.F.A.

The annual County Creed Contest was held with 2 contestants per school participating.

Donald Snyder, State F.F.A. Chaplain, and Mr. Milton Mowrer of the Northern Lebanon English Department served as judges. They placed Todd Propst, of Northern Lebanon, first, David Ludwig and Joe Stephen, both of Cedar Crest, placed second and third, respectively, and Ray Reinbold of Northern Lebanon, fourth place.

Todd is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jason Propst, Jonestown, Route #2. He recently placed first in the Wildlife Judging Contest and was one of the Chapter representatives to the National F.F.A. Convention in Kansas City, Missouri. He is a sophomore and has breeding swine as his major F.F.A. project. He also painted the back-drop for the F.F.A. window booth exhibit which was entered for competition at five Area Fairs.

Sue Heilinger, County President, adjourned the meeting and refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

Save money by pruning trees now

MEDIA - If you are considering tree pruning next summer you should give it serious consideration right now, suggests James J. McKeehen, Delaware County Extension Agricultural Agent.

You may save money in the long run.

During late spring or early summer, treemen are so busy with spraying and caring for trees that they are too busy to do routine pruning. During the fall and winter most of the companies are eager to keep their men busy.

The difference in price for the two seasons will be noticeable.

Secondly, it is easier for a treeman to spot the cankered, galled, or insect-ridden branches when there are no leaves on the tree. This means his job will be more thorough and you will have better results.

Third, but still important, is the fact branches cut out of the tree will not injure a beautiful lawn so much at this time of the year. Larger branches dropping from a tree after the spring thaw may result in large holes in your ground or ruined pieces of sod in your lawn.

Last, but perhaps most imporant of all, make sure your tree expert or arborist is completely covered by insurance. Non-insured tree men may drop branches on cars, bicycles, fences, etc., and then having nothing more than an apology with which to pay the bill.

Alma Mater

"Alma Mater" is derived from the Latin phrase meaning "Fostering Mother" and is now applied to the college or university where one has been graduated

Cumberland Co. hosts Farm-City

The Cumberland County Farm-City Week Banquet was held November 19th at the Bellaire House, Carlisle, Pa. The Fifth Annual Farm and City Dinner was co-sponsored by the Greater Carlisle Area Chamber of Commerce and the Cumberland County Agricultural Extension Service, and was attended by approximately 40 farm and town families. Miss Karen Hornbaker of RD5, Shippensburg, Cumberland County Dairy Princess, is shown in photo with Dan Fisk (left) President of the Carlisle Greater Area Chamber of Commerce and John Cope (right) Farm Manger of Ashcombe Farm Dairy. One of the highlights of the evening program was a tour of the United Telephone Company Building, 120 W. High Street, Carlisle. A summer picnic and farm tour is being planned as a follow-up.

Two proposals

port advertising and promotion activities at the level contemplated by producers when the program was adopted.

In April 1972, when the order's advertising and promotion provisions became effective, the five-cent rate was equal to 0.76 percent of the weighted average price for that month.

At that time, the cooperative's proposed formula also would have generated a five-cent funding rate.

The cooperative's witness stated that when the order was amended effective January 1, 1977 the rate adopted at the time, seven cents per hundredweight, equaled 0.68 percent of the simple average of the weighted average prices of the preceding months of October 1975 through September 1976.

He contended that the formula proposed by his cooperative to determine the funding rate was in line with the rate at which producers originally funded the program in 1972 and that this formula would provide adequate funding for the advertising and promotion program in the years to come.

The federation which proposed a funding rate of one percent of the producer pay prices contended that any rate less than one percent would not generate the funds necessary to carry out the intended advertising and promotion program in the Order 4 area.

It is their position that basing the rate upon one percent of the weighted average price would allow the level of funds available for the agency to keep up to date on a continual basis.

An increase in the funding rate for the advertising and promotion program is warranted in view of the increased costs of the program's activities that have occured over its duration.

Inflation has an impact on every area of activity pursued by the program. The Consumer Price Index increased 56 percent between 1972 and 1978 and is expected to rise sharply again this year. The cost of labor, research, and printing has increased substantially over this period.

In terms of a dollar's worth of advertising in 1974, radio advertising in the Middle Atlantic area currently costs about $1.53.

The greatest cost increase has occurred in local television advertising. One dollar's worth of television advertising in 1974 cost $1.73 in 1978 and is expected to average $2.26 during 1979.

In 1972, when the advertising and promotion program was adopted, the 5-cent rate was equal to 0.77 percent of the weighted average prices for the six-month period ending September 30, 1979.

On January 1, 1977, when the order's funding rate was amended, the adopted 7-cent rate equaled 0.70 percent of the weighted average prices for the six months ending September 30, 1976.

It can therefore be concluded that a funding rate equal to three-quarters of one percent of producer pay prices, as noted by its proponent, would be more in line with the rates Order 4 producers favored in 1972 and 1977 than a one percent funding rate.

Cooperative representing a large proportion of the Middle Atlantic producers, however, now favor expanding their support of the advertising and promotion program to one percent of producer pay prices.

If this rate were now in effect, the assessment for 1979 and 1980 would be 11 cents and 12 cents per hundredweight, respectively.

In view of the substantial producer support in the market for the higher funding rate, and in light of the voluntary nature of the program, it is reasonable that the rate of funding be increased to one percent of the producer pay prices.

Due to the voluntary nature of the program, a producer who wants to participate at a lower funding level than provided in the order may do so by electing to participate only intermittenly.

For example, a producer could participate in the program for the first three quarters of a year and request that his money be refunded for the last quarter. By such means a producer could fund the program at whatever level he believes to be appropriate.

Conforming changes have been made in the order to recognize that the current references in some sections to "weighted averaged price plus 7 cents" will no longer be appropriate.

In implementing the revised funding rate for the advertising and promotion program, the order has been modified so that the weighted average price would be computed without deducting the amount of money to be withheld for such program.

Thus, the current references to "weighted average price plus 7 cents" are changed to read "weighted average price". Under the adopted changes, the computation of the uniform prices for base milk and excess milk will continue, however, to reflect the deduction applicable for funding the advertising and promotion program.

Because of the quarterly budgeting periods under the terms of the advertising and promotion provisions of the order, it would facilitate the budgeting process to change the funding rate at the beginning of a calendar quarter.

It is anticipated that the change in the funding rate will become effective starting the second quarter of 1980.

The meaning of "no" during Christmas

YORK - During the holiday season, you'll probably say "no" to your children many times. The best way to avoid problems is to say "no" and then give the child a reason why his request cannot be met. Keep the reasons short and explain in a way the child will understand, suggests York Extension Home Economist, A. Joan Lamberson.

For example, if a child asks for an expensive toy that you cannot afford, don't say "maybe" when you really mean "no". Be honest.

Try to show a child that you know how he feels. You could say "I know you're upset because you can't have something." Then follow up your comment with a reasonable explanation of why he can't have that particular toy.

Don't change your mind once you've said "no". Changing your mind may only confuse a child and make him think you don't really mean what you say.

Adams County to hold price management seminar

GETTYSBURG — Farmers looking for a way to control the prices they get for their products should be interested in the Adams County price control workshop.

It will be held December 11, 12, 18 and 19 at the Bonanza Restaurant, 39 North Fifth Street, Gettysburg.

The four day meeting will be a basic short course in hedging.

Participants in the course will include Virgil Crowley, extension economist from Penn State; and R. Henry DiGiancinto, senior account executive and commodity specialist for Bache in Allentown.

Also scheduled is a farmer panel which will discuss experiences with the futures market; David DuPont, Agricultural Marketing Specialist for the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, Chicago, Illinois; and H. Louis Moore, extension marketing specialist with Penn State.

The program is sponsored by Adams County's extension service, USDA, local grain marketing firms, the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, and Bache.

Program cost will be $7 per person to cover the cost off coffee and donuts and miscellaneous program expenses.

In addition, lunch will be on your own. Participants can eat at the Bonanza Restaurant if they so desire.

Adams County Ag Agent John Schwartz said the program will cover how commodity futures markets operate, how they affect prices farmers receive, and how farmers may use the futures market in planning their marketing planing.

Topics to be discussed include the function of the futures market, profits in futures, principles of supply and demand, understanding and managing risk, hedging vs. speculation, price forecasting, the financial aspects of hedging, sources of information and their use, and a simulation of marketing through futures

The 1980s will find the American farmer producing food and fiber for a world market, using large amounts of capital and managing a sizable debt load, Schwartz said.

This meens we will find market fluctuations and the need to transfer and minimize risk in farming, he added

The commodity futures market, through hedging, will be an important market tool for farmers in the 1980s, he said.

For additional information on the sessions, contact Schwartz at the Adams Extension office, 717/334-6271 in Gettysburg.

Dairy Goat Club to meet Dec. 6

LANCASTER — The Lancaster County Dairy Goat Club will meet in the basement of the Farm and Home Center here on Tuesday, December 4, at 7:30 p.m.

The meeting for 4-H members will begin at 7 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Shaak, Myerstown, will be the guest speakers. They will talk about increasing production in their herd.

Farmers will be particularly interested in the Paul Ashbrook lighting system which has substantially increased the Shaak's milk this year.

Shaak's Denmar Goat Dairy consists of more than 20 registered Alpines. But their full-time commitment to goats is reflected in their spacious milking parlor, contented healthy animals, and increasing raw milk sales.

Marti Shaak was a co-founder of the Lebanon Valley Goat Club and presently serves as secretary of that club.

She also is the co-editor of the Keystone Dairy Goat News.

Questions from the group will be welcomed.

The Shaaks have encountered many of the growing pains and difficulties associated with dairy goats and will share their methods of dealing with them.

In October, the Lancaster Club sponsored a Dairy Goat Display at Park City.

At their November meeting, Extension Dairy Agent Glenn Shirk discussed ventilation and proper housing.

Shirk stressed the importance of providing a comfortable environment for an animal which is confined and can not seek out its own comfort zone.

He also said that a goat can tolerate low temperatures provided it is not stressed by dampness or drafts.

Co-generation sought as energy alternative

HARRISBURG — Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell today announced that a meeting initiated by the Agriculture Department to discuss the positive use of waste heat at electric power facilities was held Nov. 19 in University Park.

"We are looking at co-generation as a viable energy alternative for agriculture," said Hallowell. "It has been estimated that 30 percent of the energy consumed in the United States is wasted. Co-generation is an appealing alternative to that gross misuse of scarce energy resources.".

Attending the meeting were representatives of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, Penelec and agricultural energy researchers from The Pennsylvania State University.

A representative from The Pennsylvania State University told the group that 66 percent of the heat generated by fossil fuels is lost in producing electricity. Co-generation is the harnessing of that lost energy to provide secondary benefits. The waste heat is available as steam, hot water and flue gases, which can reach temperatures exceeding 300 degrees Fahrenheit.

Co-generation was suggested as a source of power for two agriculture-related industries: ethanol production and horticulture. The production of ethanol is a two-step process that requires huge amounts of heat to ferment the grain and distill the alcohol. Heat is also needed to dry the byproduct, converting distiller's wet grains into distiller's dry grains. Distiller's wet grains must be used in approximately three to five days to prevent spoilage, but dry grains can be stored for longer periods of time, facilitating their use as an export commodity.

Horticulture, a $130 million industry in Pennsylvania, could face ruinous energy bills unless alternative forms of energy are utilized. The costs of heating greenhouses has doubled in the last twelve months.

Another byproduct of coal generating facilities is fly ash. Fly ash could be used in greenhouses as fertilizer.

Penelec expressed the hope that they would be able to work with government departments and the private sector to begin co-generation operations.

Daniel Cook of the Agriculture Department's Office of Planning, Research and Economic Development said that a number of investor groups in Pennsylvania may be interested in building ethanol plants near power facilities. The Department will be putting those potential investors in contact with Penelec.

Five farmers cited for top grassland progams

UNIVERSITY PARK — Five Pennsylvania farmers, who manage efficient forage cropping systems, have been named winners of 1979 Outstanding Grassland Farmer Awards presented by the Pennsylvania Grassland Council.

Receiving awards at the recent Forage, Seed and Corn Conference on Penn State's main campus were Hershey Bare, R2, Lebanon; William Daubert, R2, Pine Grove; Dean Hillegass, R3, Berlin; A. L. Orner Sons, R1, Rockton; and John Tautin, Sr., R3, Conneautville.

According to Samuel Dum, Penn State Extension farm management specialist, the winners were honored for outstanding grassland farming practices.

Hershey Bare

Bare farms 125 acres of owned cropland, 100 acres of rented land, and 37 acres of permanent pasture. Erosion control is contour stripcropping and cross-slope stripcropping.

Approximately 97 acres of hay crop forages are grown. Of this, 80 acres are seeded to alfalfa, the remainder is clover-grass mixtures and grass. About one-third of the 90 acres of corn is harvested as silage.

The 80-cow Holstein herd is housed in a stanchion barn. Bare's winter feeding program consists of 65 percent hay and 35 percent corn silage. During the summer feeding period, hay makes up about 30 percent of the forage, permanent pasture 10 percent, and hay crop and corn silage 60 percent.

Home-grown grains of corn and oats make up about 75 percent of the grain ration for the milking herd.

A recent rolling herd average was almost 16,200 pounds of milk and 608 pounds of butterfat.

The return over feed costs amounted to $1233. Almost 500,000 pounds of milk per man were sold in 1978.

William Daubert

Daubert farms 90 acres of his cropland and 235 acres of rented land. There are 39 acres of improved pasture. Erosion control is by crossslope stripcropping and grassed waterways.

The hay crop forage consists of 100 acres of alfalfa and alfalfa-grass mixtures and 15 acres of clover-grass mixtures.

About two-thirds of the hay crop is harvested as low-moisture haylage and stored in a sealed silo. The remainder is harvested as baled hay.

Sixty acres of corn are harvested for silage. The remaining 100 acres are harvested as high-moisture shelled corn.

The 74-cow Brown Swiss herd is housed in free stalls. The winter forage program consists of 40 percent corn silage, 40 percent low-moisture haylage, and 20 percent hay.

High-moisture shelled corn makes up 80 percent of the grain fed to the milking herd.

Daubert's rolling herd average is over 16,100 pounds of milk and 642 pounds of butterfat.

Return over feed cost is $1028 per cow. Milk sold per man equivalent was over 400,000 pounds in 1978.

Dean Hillegass

Hillegass farms 200 acres of his own land and rents an additional 20 acres of cropland. Erosion control is maintained through contour stripcropping, cross-slope stripcropping, and grassed waterways.

Approximately 100 acres of hay crop forages are grown. Of this acreage, 80 acres and mainly alfalfa and 20 acres are in grass.

About 60 percent of the hay crop is harvested as low-moisture haylage and stored in a sealed silo.

Of the 70 acres of corn he grows, about 50 acres are harvested for silage and 20 acres as ear corn. Fifty acres of oats complete the cropping program.

The 50-cow milking herd of Holsteins is housed in a stanchion barn. During the winter, hay makes up to 27 percent of the forage fed; corn silage 40 percent; and low-moisture haylage, 33 percent.

During the summer, permanent pasture dominates the forage fed by furnishing an estimated 36 percent of the dry matter; corn silage, 30 percent; low-moisture haylage provides 22 percent; and hay, 12 percent of the forage dry matter.

Home-grown grains provide 65 percent of the grain fed to the milking herd.

Md. poultry team takes honors

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Maryland 4-H representatives garnered a second and a seventh in two poultry-related youth contests on November 15 during the North American Livestock Exposition at Louisville, Ky.

Kristi Wierer, 15, of Myersville (Frederick county) placed second in the second annual national 4-H egg cooking demonstration contest. And a Maryland team finished seventh among 19 state 4-H delegations in the national 4-H poultry and egg judging competition.

Members of the Maryland judging team were Randy Hays, 16, of Smithsburg (Washington county); Joyce Kondner, 15, of Parkton (Baltimore county); Matthew J. ("Jeff") Davis, 15, of Aberdeen (Harford county), and Paul Kelly, 17, of Waldorf (Charles county). They had been the top four individuals in senior 4-H poultry and egg judging competition during the 1979 Maryland State Fair at Timonium.

As the second-place individual in egg-cooking, Maryland's Miss Wierer had her picture taken with Col. Harlan Sanders, the 89-year-old founder and "patron saint" of Kentucky Fried Chicken fame. Her recipe was titled "Easter Petal Salad."

Coaching this year's Maryland 4-H poultry and egg judging team was William C. Merka, Extension poultry specialist at the University of Maryland in College Park. He was assisted by J William Clark of Bel Air, a 4-H and youth agent in Harford county since 1968.

Grain roasting topic at Young Farmers

TERRE HILL — The Garden Spot Young Farmers will meet Tuesday, December 4, 7:30 p.m., at the Union Grove School.

Topic for the evening will be roasting grains. Scheduled speakers include Al Lithgow, seed specialist from Xtra Factors, Ephrata; and Dale Schnupp, operator of a Lebanon grain roaster.

Young Farmer Advisor Don Robinson said the program speakers will look at the advantages of roasting grains, both nutritionally and economically.

Speakers also will examine precautions to use when feeding roasted grains. Program is to cover feeding dairy cows, beef animals and hogs.

Location of the meeting recently has been changed to the Union Grove School. The school is located along Route 625, about two miles north of Route 23.

Refreshments will be served at the meeting.

Hillegass' cows produce about 16,900 pounds of milk and 671 pounds of butterfat.

A. L. Orner Sons

Ross Orner, Jr., and David Orner, operators in a farm partnership, grow alfalfa and alfalfa-grass mixtures on approximately 135 acres; and have some birdsfoot trefoil and clover.

About 50 acres of corn are harvested for silage and stored in conventional tower and sealed silos. A number of small grain crops complete the cropping program.

Of the 85 cows in the milking herd, two-thirds are Holsteins, the remainder Guernseys. They are housed in free stalls.

The rolling herd average for the Holsteins is about 16,300 pounds of milk and 621 pounds of butter. The return over feed cost is $1312.

For the Guernseys, rolling average is 12,700 pounds of milk and 566 pounds of butterfat with a return over feed cost of $1029.

The winter barn feeding program consists of 52 percent corn silage and 48 percent low-moisture hay crop silage. The summer feeding program consists of 18 percent pasture; 54 percent low-moisture haylage; and 28 percent corn silage.

Home-grown grains make up about 65 percent of the grain fed during the winter and 75 percent during the summer.

John Tautin, Sr.

Tautin farms 82 acres of cropland and 30 acres of improved pasture. Alfalfa is grown on 52 acres.

About 85 percent of the hay crop is harvested as low-moisture haylage and stored in a sealed silo. The remainder is harvested as baled hay.

The 30 acres of corn grain are stored as high moisture shelled corn in a sealed silo.

The 40-cow Holstein herd is housed in a stanchion house. The winter forage feeding program consists of 90 percent low-moisture haylage and 10 percent hay.

Although the milking herd has access to improved pasture during the growing season, pasture only supplies about 10 percent of the forage fed for this feeding period. Low moisture haylage provides 80 percent and hay 10 percent of the forage fed.

Home-grown high moisture shelled corn supplies about 94 percent of the grain fed to the milking herd.

The rolling herd average is slightly over 19,300 pounds of milk and 737 pounds of butterfat. The return over feed costs amounts to $1718 per cow.

Almost 500,000 pounds of milk per man equivalent were sold off the Tautin farm in 1978.

Pa. broiler placements increase

The placements were five percent below the corresponding week a year earlier but 17 percent above the previous week. Average placements during the past nine weeks were five percent below a year earlier.

Placements in the 21 key poultry producing states were 69,759,000, 13 percent above the previous week but one percent below the same week a year ago. Average placements during the past nine weeks were three percent above the previous year.

Broiler-fryers slaughtered in Pennsylvania under federal inspection during the week ending November 7 totaled 2,057,000, with an average liveweight of 4.06 pounds.

Inter-State's printer wins communicator award

LANCASTER - George M. Williams, President, Williams Brothers Printers and Stationers, Inc., Philadelphia, Pa., was named Inter-State Milk Producers' Cooperative 1979 recipient of the Communicator Award during the Young Cooperator Breakfast Program at the Cooperative's 62nd Annual Meeting.

The Philadelphia Communicator began serving Inter-State's needs as a designer-printer for the Inter-State Review Magazine, March, 1970. George has been in the printing business all his life. Williams Brothers printing firm began in 1925.

In May, 1973, George began printing the Penn-marva Magazine. He has been the printer for this publication since that date. In addition to printing the magazine, George has been responsible for many changes in the magazine layout, style of the cover and logistic procedures. He has been Inter-State's number one publisher for the many printing services needed by the cooperative.

Williams has had desire to do the best possible job on any project undertaken. The quality of his work, attitude, accuracy and timeliness that accompanied every job accounts for the basis of his selection for this award.

George started his printing experience with his father and two uncles. The printing firm was called Williams Brothers Printing Co. The firm was located at Margaret and Ditman Streets, Philadelphia, Pa. In November, 1976, the firm was re-organized and the name was changed to Williams Printers and Stationers, Inc., located at Frankford and Oxford Avenues, Philadelphia, with George as its President.

Inter-State markets in excess of two billion pounds of milk a year from 3,000 dairy farmer members in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia.

Poultry team earns bronze award

Rohrbach earns home environment award

SELINSGROVE - An 18-year-old Pennsylvania girl, who designed a three-bedroom solar home her parents plan to construct, has been named one of six national winners in the 4-H home environment program.

Laura Rohrbach, 105 Magnolia Avenue, Selinsgrove, received a $1,000 scholarship during the 58th National 4-H Congress in Chicago No 25-29.

Selected by the Cooperative Extension Service, the six winners were presented their awards by the S&H Foundation, Inc., sponsor of the 4-H home environment program.

Rohrbach, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Karl G. Rohrbach, is a freshman at Cornell University and plans a career in architecture.

The Snyder County girl said she became interested in and did extensive research on solar architecture She then designed a three-bedroom home for her parents to build when both she and her sister have left home and a large house is no longer necessary.

"My parents were very pleased with the results and will be implementing the plan with a few minor changes," she said. "I found a home can actually be designed to act as a collector and storage place for solar energy with very little extra cost to the home owner."

Rohrbach was enrolled in a pre-college architecture program at Carnegie-Mellon University for six weeks last summer

The coed has also completed a number of less dramatic projects in the 4-H home environment program Two years ago, she became interested in antiques and began traveling with her parents to auctions in the area.

She became particularly interested in caned chairs and decided to refinish and recane one herself. Once into the work though, she decided not to totally strip the finish off the old chair she was using in her project. She instead used a product that melted the old finish down and smoothed it out.

Swine Producers Day cancelled

LANCASTER — Because the Keystone Pork Congress will be held at the Host Farm east of Lancaster on February 13 and 14, there will be no Lancaster County swine producers day this year.

However, County Agent Max Smith said there would be a local evening meeting for all swine producers on Thursday evening, December 13, at 7.30 p.m.

It will be held at the Farm and Home Center in Lancaster

Program for the meeting will include Penn State Extension Economist Louis Moore who will talk on swine and feed outlook for 1980.

Dwight E Younkin, Penn State hog specialist, will talk about keeping down production costs. He also will review winter management of swine buildings.

In addition, the County Swine Producers Association banquet has been re-scheduled for February 8, according to Association President Gary Dean.

The banquet traditionally has been held sometime in March.

that Shey-lands' Holsteins received statewide recognition. In 1974, the herd had the highest average milk production. Last year, they were fourth in average milkfat with 801 pounds.

At the local level, the Sheypuk brothers have held on to the top slot on the Lackawanna County DHIA herd record list for the tenth year in a row. They were given special recognition at their county's annual association meeting recently for their outstanding record and achievement.

How did the brothers get to where they are today. George attributes their success to the fact that they have been farming and improving since they graduated from high school

In 1961, the Sheypuk brothers had a herd average of 12,964 pounds of milk and 440 pounds of butterfat for their 29 cows. In the eighteen years since then, they have earned a reputation for breeding Holstein cattle with outstanding type and production.. Last year, Shey-land Farm had the second highest national average for all DHIR herds with 51 to 80 cows.

A[illegible] a good job in every part of farming", added George. This is not an easy task considering the short growing season, wet soils, and generally hilly terrain that the brothers have to farm.

The Sheypuks raise around 60 acres of corn and 100 acres of hay. The hay is an alfalfa-grass mixture that lasts about two to three years. In spite of the short life span on the alfalfa, George says that they feel its worth it to raise the legume.

"We make our records on the roughage. We grow everything that we feed", George noted. "We feed our cows good hay and corn silage, and no more than 30 pounds of grain. That's the that we feed to our top producing cows, with the lower cows getting less depending on their production."

George said that their success has been a combination of good crop management, cow care, and genetics. The brothers do their own artificial insemination, and according to George they buy only the best bull semen.

Currently, a lot of the Shey-land cows are dropping calves sired by Glen-Valley Star. George pointed out that this bull is one of the highest type bulls in the nation, with a predicted difference of +2.73. The bull's predicted difference for milk production, he added, was almost 1100 pounds.

Their herd's top cow at the moment is an Arlinda Chief daughter. This six year old excellent cow produces 138 pounds of milk per day. She averages over 1100 pounds of butterfat and milks over 28,000 pounds.

Shey-land Farm is also a member of Elite Syndicate, the buyer of Willsholm Jewel Elite, the maternal sister of Round Oak Rag Apple Elevation, the second highest cow at this year's All-American sale. The Sheypuk's, along with Harold Hart, of Susquehanna County, and Joan and Bill Schuldt, of Nineveh, New York, are the owners of this top cow which is bred to S-W-D Valiant and due to calve in February.

If their success and efforts to improve their Holstein herd continue to grow, the Sheypuk brother team will let farmers around Pennsylvania and the nation know that there is more to black and white in Lackawanna County than just coal and snow.

Ag land meeting

Township, will tell farmers about the agricultural district approach.

Under this proposal a sizable tract of farmland, consisting of several separate operations, would be considered as an agricultural preserve. Farmers would receive certain tax considerations and would be freed, for the most part, from restrictive ordinances or from government agencies taking their property through eminent domain.

The panel will be moderated by Jay E. Landis, Lancaster, who is President of the Board of Directors of the Farm and Home Foundation.

Max Smith, Lancaster County Extension Agent, will deliver summary remarks, reviewing the proposals put forward by each speaker.

The floor then will be opened for questions and discussion of the topics and proposals made.

The purpose of the meeting, according to Roy Brubaker, is to present the various plans that currently are being proposed for the preserving of good farm land in the County.

He pointed out the panel members all are quite active in realizing the need for preserving farm land in the County.

Max Smith, in his 43rd year in Extension in Lancaster County, pointed out that when he first came to the county there was none of the ribbon development along the highways that can be seen today.

"It's a shame we have to cover up this good farm land," he said.

He said all of the proposals deserve attention and pointed out that it has been only recently that farmers and others have been able to make their cases heard.

Since the Barley landfill controversy, county commissioners and zoning boards have gotten a bit more backbone in taking a stand to preserve farmland in the County, he pointed out.

The meeting is being sponsored by the educational committee of the Farm and Home Foundation.

All land owners and other interested citizens are invited to attend the meeting.

Cross Bros. closes

that time, another buyer will take up the slack," he commented.

Merton McCoy, president of McCoy Cattle, added, "feelers from northern New York, Baltimore, and Washington, D.C." show other firms are observing the local markets and may be interested in buying here.

Local cattle buyers said they were shocked at the Cross Bros. decision.

"They bought cattle of varying weight and quality, and paid their bills promptly," Stoudt mentioned.

Operating costs and the competition of the western slaughterhouses triggered the Cross closing, according to Stoudt. "The small local operations were not pressing them that hard," he noted.

Cross Bros. is unionized; the majority of western packers are not. Area cattle buyers agree that this factor needs to be considered in the Cross Bros. closing.

Milt Marshall, a veteran Cross buyer at the local auctions, stated, "There are no future plans for Cross Bros."

Without a doubt, Cross Bros.'s buyers will be missed in Lancaster's three livestock auctions.

However, in a few months, Lancaster will have stronger cattle runs with new buyers and new action, observers said.—DS

Md. Ag. Commission sees need for lab space

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — An apparent need for new and larger laboratory facilities for the State Department of Agriculture was indicated to the members of the Maryland Agricultural Commission when they recently toured these installations at College Park.

The Agricultural Commission is a 17 member group, appointed by the Governor representing various facets of agriculture. The major responsibility of the Commission is to serve in an advisory capacity to the Secretary of Agriculture in matters of advancing Maryland agriculture.

Twice a year these agriculturally oriented volunteers embark on a field trip to explore the workings of agriculture in the State of Maryland. This year their fall trip took them to College Park for a tour of the several laboratories that are operated by the Maryland Department of Agriculture

From "Animal Health" to "Weights and Measures", through "Plant Protection", "Turf and Seed" and "State Chemist" they watched as specimens were analyzed, weights were checked against official standards, seeds were tested for purity and germination, bean plants were grown under controlled conditions and postmortem examinations were performed on vital organs of deceased animals.

Commission Chairman Leon Enfield, in reviewing the tour, commented on the heavy workload being handled and stated: "We were particularly impressed with the handling of so many complex and detailed procedures in such cramped quarters.

"The labs all seem to be well equipped and adequately staffed but there just is not enough room for them to function efficiently.

"The Seed Lab has samples stored in halls and under stairs because of a lack of space and we were disturbed to find a laboratory dedicated to study and eradication of the Mexican Bean Beetle has been relegated to a converted house trailer," he said.

Other members of the Commission voiced similar opinions and indicated that they would soon be communicating their opinions to the Secretary of Agriculture, Wayne A. Cawley, Jr.

experience enjoyable, but she wouldn't trade her farm wife life for a county treasurer's life.

Hockenberry spent the day at the Reichard farm. She stated that she didn't realize that farming today was so much different from when her grandparents farmed.

Reflecting on the objective of Farm-City Week, "Pride in the past and faith in the future," Mary said, "I was proud of my grandparents but with farmers like Frances and Ed we don't need to worry about the future."

The next pair of exchangees to make comments were J. Nelson Wengert, R2, Chambersburg, a dairy farmer; and Donald L. Hurst, R3, Fayetteville, manager of the J. C. Penney store of Chambersburg.

Hurst commented that after his day on the Wengert dairy farm he has more respect for the milk product and the farmer. He said he was overwhelmed by the complexity of dairy farming.

Hurst said, "Nelson is a businessman too, but I wouldn't want to change places."

Wengert's day at the J.C. Penney store took him from the boiler room to the vault. He had a chance to meet the department heads and see how the store is run. Wengert enjoyed his day at the store, but said "he appreciated the country life."

Lyle Hanse of Chambersburg, owner-operator of Culps Office Supply Store in Chambersburg and John DenHartog, R1, Fayetteville, an orchardist, exchanged a day with each other Hanse stated he was "flabbergasted" by DenHartog's orchard operation. He had no idea of the amount of work that goes into maintaining an orchard. Hanse said he felt he has gained a friend in DenHartog.

When asked how many apples he ate, Hanse replied, "I picked twelve and I ate sixteen."

DenHartog, a native of Holland who moved here in 1964, said he felt there were a lot of differences in his orchard operation and Culps Office Supply Store but enjoyed his exchange day thoroughly. DenHartog even bought a typewriter from Hanse that day.

Steven R Newcomer, R1, Waynesboro, Hospital Manager at Franklin Veterinary Associates in Greencastle was paired with Richard T. Ezell, Chambersburg, director of the Conococheague District Library.

Newcomer said he learned a lot about the operation of a library and now can appreciate them and the library employees more. He also feels that our tax dollars are being well spent when used to operate our library facilities.

Ezell, expecting to have a busy day at Franklin Veterinary Associates, found it to be a very slow day, but he still got a good feel of the operation.

Ezell said it was "interesting from beginning to end."

"I saw some of the sickest pigs you every saw," he added.

Ezell brought the audience to laughter when he said, "It is too soon after dinner to tell you what those guys tried to get me to do to a sick cow."

The Franklin County Dairy Princess, Carolyn S. Meyers, R1, Greencastle, and Sheri Winters of Mercersburg, Franklin County Apple queen, were on hand for the banquet. Both girls commented on the product which they proudly represent.

Other groups attending the event were: the Chambersburg Kiwanis Club; The Rouzersville Lions Club; the Chambersburg Business and Professional Womens Club; Senior Cititzens of Meno Village in Chambersburg, Waynesboro, Greencastle and Conococheague Chapters of the FFA; Green Township Lions, and various Franklin County Farm Women Societies.

During Farm-City Week the Franklin County Farm Women Societies sponsored a tour for the Senior Citit-

Dan Schrack wins alfalfa growing contest

UNIVERSITY PARK - Five Pennsylvania grassland farmers received 1979 State Alfalfa Growers Awards at the recent Forage, Seed and Corn Conference held on Penn State's main campus.

Champion alfalfa grower was Dan Schrack, of Loganton, Clinton County. Schrack produced 9.1 tons of hay equivalent; 3482 pounds of protein; and 10,405 pounds of total digestible nutrients per acre. He used the WL-311 variety.

John E. Baylor, Penn State Extension agronomist and contest coordinator, points out that the winners were selected on the basis of points received for hay equivalent yield per acre; pounds of protein and total digestible nutrients during the entire growing season.

Runner-up was Enos Zimmerman, of RD2, Annville, Lebanon County. He produced 8.2 tons of hay equivalent; 2325 pounds of protein; and 9941 pounds of total digestible nutritents. Zimmerman seeded Conestoga.

Third place winner was Jesse Balmer, of 572 Mill Way Road, Lititz, Lancaster County. His alfalfa production consisted of 7.6 pounds of hay equivalent; 3109 pounds of protein; and 9172 pounds of total digestible nutrients per acre. He planted WL-311 variety.

In fourth place was Paul Dotterer, of RD, Mill Hall, Clinton County. He produced 7.9 tons of hay equivalent per acre; 3029 pounds of protein; and 9140 pounds of digestible protein per acre. Dotterer also used WL-311.

Galen Furry, of 101 Blair Street, Martinsburg, Bedford County, placed fifth. He produced 7.6 tons of hay equivalent per acre; 2882 pounds of protein; and 8894 pounds of total digestible nutrients per acre. Furry used Saranac to make his yield.

Baylor notes that 64 growers completed the program.

Largest Chianina show in N. America held

LOUISVILLE — The Chianina National Show held in conjunction with the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville was the laregest show for the breed ever held on this continent, according to Show Superintendent Richard Koonce.

Koonce is vice president of the American Chianina Association. He explained that while Chianina are the oldest breed of cattle in Italy, the first semen arrived in this country in 1971. The first calves were born in 1972. Now breeders have upgraded their herds so that there are American purebreds — bulls which are at least 15/16 Chianina and females which are at least 7/8 Chianina. Chianina are the largest breed of cattle in the world and are very fast growers. They originated in the Chiana Valley in Tuscany — the same valley that produced Chianti wine.

Koonce said that Chianina "meld well with the breeds which are already in this country to produce superior offspring." and are frequently crossed with other beef breeds. For that reason, the Chianina show had two sets of classes: one set for purebreds and the other for "percentage" animals — those that were at least 25 percent Chianina but less than required for purebred status.

There were approximately 60 entries in the National Junior Chianina Show and 200 in the open show.

State to survey farmers on 1980 planting intentions

HARRISBURG - State Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell Monday said a survey intended to provide farmers with estimates of 1980 acreage and livestock prospects is being conducted by the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service through December 3.

The survey, according to Wally Evans, State Statistician, will involve 520 Pennsylvania farmers. Evans said that enumerators from the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service will visit a cross-section of state farmers to determine livestock inventories and acreage planted to winter wheat and rye.

Evans noted that increased acreage and record yields boosted 1979 winter wheat production substantially above the 1978 level, but that strong domestic and foreign demand has maintained a healthy price for farmers.

He said pork supplies are expected to be sizeable and beef production may average near the year-earlier totals through mid-1980.

All answers given by farmers will be held in confidence, and used to form state and national estimates. Evans said that participation is voluntary, but he stressed that survey reports should aid farmers in making their production, storage and marketing plans for the coming season.

Reports of survey results on hogs and wheat will be released on December 21 while data on cattle and chickens will be issued in late January, 1980.

Survey results will be available by writing the Pennsylvania Crop Reporting Service, Room G-19, 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110 or by calling 717-787-3904.

PLANT MiGRO HYBRIDS

THE NAME GROWING IN HYBRID SEED CORN

PLANT HIGH PERFORMANCE WITH THESE HIGH-YIELDING MIGRO HYBRIDS

Migro M-2022X

Maturity 105-108 days. If you like high plant populations, try Migro M-2022X You can plant it in populations up to 26,000 plants per acre, and—under good management—harvest top yields. M-2022X yields good at lesser population levels, too. This year average of 9 local tests yielded 151 bu. per acre.

This hybrid shows tolerance to heat and low moisture stress. But if you really want to see some exceptional yields, just put M-2022X in some of your fields and see for yourself

New Migro HP-27

Maturity: 109-111 days. If your goal is big yields, this new Migro hybrid is for you. HP-27 is an attractive hybrid with semi-erect leaves. Sturdy stalks, good ear retention, earth-anchoring roots, great grain quality and outstanding general disease tolerance. It's especially well-suited to growing conditions in your area. Ideal populations are 22,000 to 24,000 plants per acre under normal conditions.

Migro M-0707

A yield champion.

Maturity: 120-122 days. A newcomer to Migro's full-season lineup. Last year, this hybrid was already making a name for itself in head to head competition with other hybrids in a lot of yield trails. This year average of 8 local tests yielded 155 bu. per acre.

Yield is not its only claim to fame This exciting new hybrid is noted for great root strength, sturdy stalks and good standability. M-0707 shows resistance to a wide range of diseases including blight and anthracnose.

Put in M-0707 for populations of 20,000 to 24,000 plants per acre. Its unique upright leaf characteristic lets in extra air and sun which help speed up the drying process in the fall. Another plus for this hybrid is it will give big silage tonnage.

Do it all in the Fall

Match corn's requirement for N, P & K with Fall-applied

ORTHO UNIPEL® 20-10-10.

Replacement of the N, P & K removed from the soil is important if you're to maintain continued high productivity each year.

A Fall application of ORTHO UNIPEL 20-10-10 fertilizer will restore the needed soil fertility and save valuable Spring time for planting Its 2-1-1 ratio of basic nutrients is right for continuous corn fields with a good Phosphate/Potash balance.

One Fall pass over the field does it all—aids decomposition of stalks and stubble, and stores nutrients in the soil for Spring—with little or no Nitrogen loss over Winter on soils suitable for Fall fertilization. UNIPEL fertilizer's quick-acting Nitrogen and Phosphorus are there to give plants a big "push" in the Spring. while its long-lasting forms keep feeding right through the growing season

Should Fall time slip away, then Spring's not too late for a uniform single application of UNIPEL 20-10-10

Let's discuss how to fit ORTHO UNIPEL 20-10-10 fertilizer into your corn fertility program this Fall

New Castle County gets new 4-H agent

NEWARK, Del. — Mark J. Manno has joined the New Castle county staff of the Delaware Extension Service as urban 4-H agent, effective November 16.

The new agent will work out of the county extension office, which is located in Agricultural Hall at the University of Delaware.

Manno, who grew up near Prices Corner, Del., received his B.S. degree in animal science from the University of Delaware and his M.S. degree in dairy science from Virginia Polytechnic Institute

After completing his studies, he spend two years as a 4-H agent in Charlottesville, Va , and three and one-half years as a 4-H agent in Charles county, Md. Because of that county's proximity to Washington, D.C , he has worked a lot with suburban and urban youth.

According to state extension 4-H leader James O. Baker, Manno's major commitment in Delaware will be to the New Castle county urban 4-H program.

American Ag Movement slates organizational meeting

HANOVER — A local committee of the American Agriculture Movement has scheduled an organizational meeting to gather support for the national AAM organization which is being formed.

The meeting is scheduled for Monday, December 3, at 8 p.m. It will be held in the Community Room of the National Central Bank, 22 Carlisle Street, Hanover.

S. Edward Murphy, Hanover, and Bernard C. Gardner, Spring Grove, are among the local organizers.

Speaker for the meeting will be Wayne Peterson, a South Dakota farmer and AAM member who has been active in Washington, D.C. on an almost daily basis pushing for the 100 percent parity and other objectives of the American Agriculture Movement.

He will tell those at the meeting just what the AAM people in Washington are trying to accomplish and how they have been doing it.

In addition, AAM has taken an interest in gasohol production.

Murphy said that up until now AAM has just been a movement. He said the group is trying to get organized, both nationally and locally.

"If we can generate enough interest locally we can join the national group," Gardner said.

He has been involved with AAM since it got started two years ago as a grassroots farmer movement seeking 100 percent parity for farm prices.

The national AAM expects to assess each state at a certain rate per month. By establishing a local chapter of AAM, Pennsylvania could raise the funds through dues money.

The American Agriculture Movement made its biggest splash last winter with the tractorcade to Washington, D.C.

Farmers by the hundreds drove around the Capitol to make their points known to legislators in Washington.

Gardner said he does not foresee a tractorcade this year.

"We are going to concentrate on less-expensive demonstrations," he said.

But he would agree with Murphy who said, "The American farmer has been hornswaggled long enough."

Among the current plans are for AAM members to visit all of the Federal offices in Washington, both legislative and regulatory,to make sure the government reacts according to AAM policy.

The American Agriculture Movement said it feels farmers have gotten the short end of the stick from the government many times in the last few years.

AAM members still are steaming about the 1975 soybean embargo. In 1974, they said, the government asked for 'fence row to fence row" production.

No sooner did the crop come in than the embargo was envoked. This, AAM said, enabled grain-short Russia to buy at distressed prices after harvest in 1975. The American producers and economy lost billions of dollars, AAM said.

Among incidents they cite are the price freeze the government imposed in 1973 just about the time cattle prices were close to parity.

They said the U.S. government has manipulated the grain markets with loan rates for grain at less than 90 percent of parity to enable grain-short countries to purchase farm production at a substantial discount from parity.

AAM said it is upset about Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland's telling AAM farmers that they were greedy to want incomes on par with the U.S. inflationary economy.

The AAM said it had enough of a U.S. President (Jimmy Carter) condoning such a statement by not accepting his resignation.

They also said they are put out that Carter's wife refused to meet with the wives of American Agriculture at their annual gathering in Washington.

Gardner said AAM is looking closely at gasohol, and is promoting its use.

AAM has said it does not understand why nothing is being done to free the United States from blackmail by the OPEC cartel.

They pointed out the Brazilian Government requires mass-producing multi-fueled vehicles that are capable of running on gas, alcohol, or a combination of the two.

Brazil also is converting present vehicles to multi-fuel.

AAM said General Motors, Ford, Volkswagon, and Fiat are signatories to the agreement. They said GM is spending $500,000,000 and Ford $300,000,000 to comply with the new requirements.

Members of AAM say they would like to see an alcohol fuel plant on every farm. That would make the farm producer once again self-sufficient and independent, they said.

They said they have had enough of massive shipments of grain overseas at less than parity price. They said they would rather see the grain kept in the United States where it could be used for fuel.

They called for the U.S. Government to develop vehicles that are operated on 100 alcohol fuel and gasohol.

They also will have available a book "Makin' It on the Farm—Alcohol Fuel is the Raod to Independance." This AAM publication will be sold at the meeting for $2.95 and details all a farmer would need to know about making alcohol on his farm.

They said they have had enough of people in government who talk down the concept of "bushels for barrels" whereby American would trade a bushel of grain for a barrel of fuel.

They said they are tired of the U.S. Government's providing non-resident aliens the incentives to acquire and control U.S. farmland, food production, and food distribution facilities by exempting them from paying capital gains taxes and dramatically reducing the Federal Estate Tax they pay on large estates.

This up-front Capital Gains Tax exemption enables foreigners to outbid U.S. citizens by 25 percent, AAM said.

Members said the AAM parity fight is for all farmers—dairy, grain, and ranchers—the whole agricultural arena.

They invited anyone interested in doing something about the situation to attend the Monday evening meeting.—CH

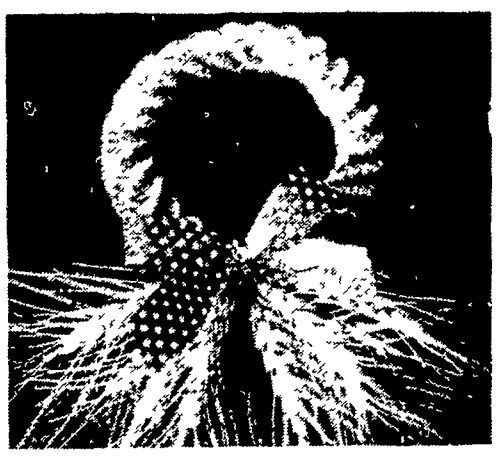
Janet Buchen weaves wheat into a wreath, as she works on the ancient custom in the kitchen of her Manheim farm home.

Ancient art reflects religious beliefs

Janet Bucher weaves all-natural wheat decorations

Before the straw can be woven, it must be made pliable, by soaking in water for one half hour.



A woven wheat wreath is an excellent Christmas ornament or accent to a wrapped gift.

An angel created from wheat would be a lovely way to top off a Christmas tree.

BY SALLY BAIR
Staff Writer

Wheat weaving is an ancient form of decoration, and one which is enjoying a great deal of popularity again. It reflects the growing trend toward natural decorations, and in the hands of Janet Buchen, it can really be considered an art.

"I really enjoy working with natural things, and wheat is a natural product found all around us," Mrs. Clyde Buchen, R2 Manheim, declares. It seems appropriate that Janet, the wife of a dairy farmer, should be working with a farm product, fashioning it into lovely decorations for the home.

Wheat weaving is an ancient art which reflected the religious belief of early farmers. Common to the many diverse legends which grew up concerning wheat art is a belief in a spirit which dominates the harvests. "Corn dollies" is the common name given to early wheat weaving, with the word corn generally applying to all grains. Corn dollies were considered good luck pieces in Christian circles, and were offered as a symbol of thanksgiving at harvest time.

The decorative wheat designs were made primarily in rural areas, according to Janet, and always at the completion of harvest. Often the last handful of choice grains was saved and woven into a symbol which was kept throughout the winter until spring planting and the beginning of the next harvest cycle.

While wheat weaving is thought to go back to ancient days, and could be found in almost all European countries, some of the most sophisticated weaving is found in rural England, and it is these traditions which are primarily taught today in this country.

Janet explained that she had the opportunity to work with Adelia Stucky, one of two authors of the book, "Wheat Weaving Made Easy." "It really helps to watch someone who is really experienced, and to watch how they hold it, and how they use their hands," she stated. "I felt it was easy to learn, but my first items weren't perfect."

Janet shares what she has learned as a teacher in craft classes at Stauffer's of Kissel Hill. She began working for them six years ago, teaching eggery, and through the years adapted to learn other crafts, the latest of which is wheat weaving.

She said they didn't begin preparing for the classes in time this year to use local wheat for the weaving of the harvest symbols, although they hope to do so next year. Presently students in the classes use purchased packages of wheat, but Janet explained, "It is not difficult to gather your own. It must be gathered at the right time. You have to get it in the milky or doughy stage, after it is golden yellow, but before it gets ripe. If it is too ripe, the grains will fall out. It shouldn't be mildewy or dark." To dry the grain simply hang it with heads down, protected from mice.

Janet said the only drawback of local wheat, as compared with the midwestern wheat now being used, is that the wheat here is shorter since farmer's don't value the straw as they once did.

To weave the wheat it must be pliable, and that requires that it be soaked in water for about one half hour. After it is soaked, it can be laid on a towel, and if it starts to dry it can be rolled in the towel which will keep it damp for hours. Janet said that if you're called away in the middle of a project, the rolled towel can be placed in the refrigerator or freezer, and the wheat will remain damp and pliable for days.

Janet makes, and teaches, a wide variety of straw ornaments and figures. One of the most intriguing at this time of the year is a four inch wreath, made with five pieces of straw, woven together in a square pattern, which results in a spiral design. As she deftly works with the straw, Janet makes the project look easy. The base of the wreath is a piece of florists' wire wrapped with masking tape. The wheat is woven around this wire, which can be easily molded into a circle upon completion. The heads of wheat make it decorative, and a tiny cloth bow adds the finishing touch, It is a lovely tree ornament. Janet says she can make the 4" wreath in about 45 minutes, and a candy cane, made in a similar pattern, takes about one half hour. Carpet and buttonhole thread is used for hanging.

A "mordiford" is another traditional English wheat design, named for the town of Mordiford. Janet explained that it was a traditional fertility symbol, exchanged between two lovers on Valentine's Day, which falls at the end of winter and the beginning of a new harvest season. The design features a heart, made with six braids.

Another common English decoration is known as the Welsh border fan, named for provinces in Wales which were known as "borders." It apparently is a traditional symbol of the corn spirit in all the Welsh counties, and was made from the last handful of grain left in the field.

Janet makes a wide variety of decorations, including bells, variations of stars, birds, angels and victorian ladies.

At the classes she teaches at Stauffer's, Janet said the novice gets a wide variety of designs to work on and complete. Some of the classes are kept small, according to Janet, "because wheat weaving takes a lot of individual attention." At the all-day classes, participants learn to make the welsh fan, the mordiford and a candy cane. In half-day classes, just two items are completed, and in the advanced class, students can learn to do the lantern, the bell and a larger wreath.

Janet says the classes have a lot of interest. "There are many craft-minded people in this area," she states, adding that many of her students come back for different classes.

She enjoys teaching the classes, saying "It is thrilling to see their enjoyment, and their satisfaction. I enjoy it so much."

Teaching the classes on a part-time basis is ideal for this busy farm wife, because, as she puts it, "I wouldn't like to work full time." As it is, she may have classes as often as three times a week, and she works every Friday at the Manheim Auto Auction.

She is a member of Farm Women 26 and is librarian at the Neffsville Mennonite Church. Her current "big" interest is tennis, which she plays two to three times a week.

The mother of four children, Janet says that she first started working with her hands when the children were small. Three of her children age grown, and liv-

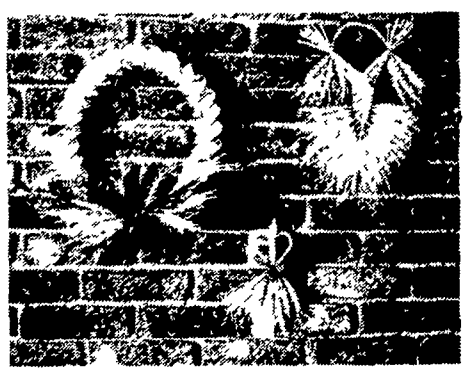
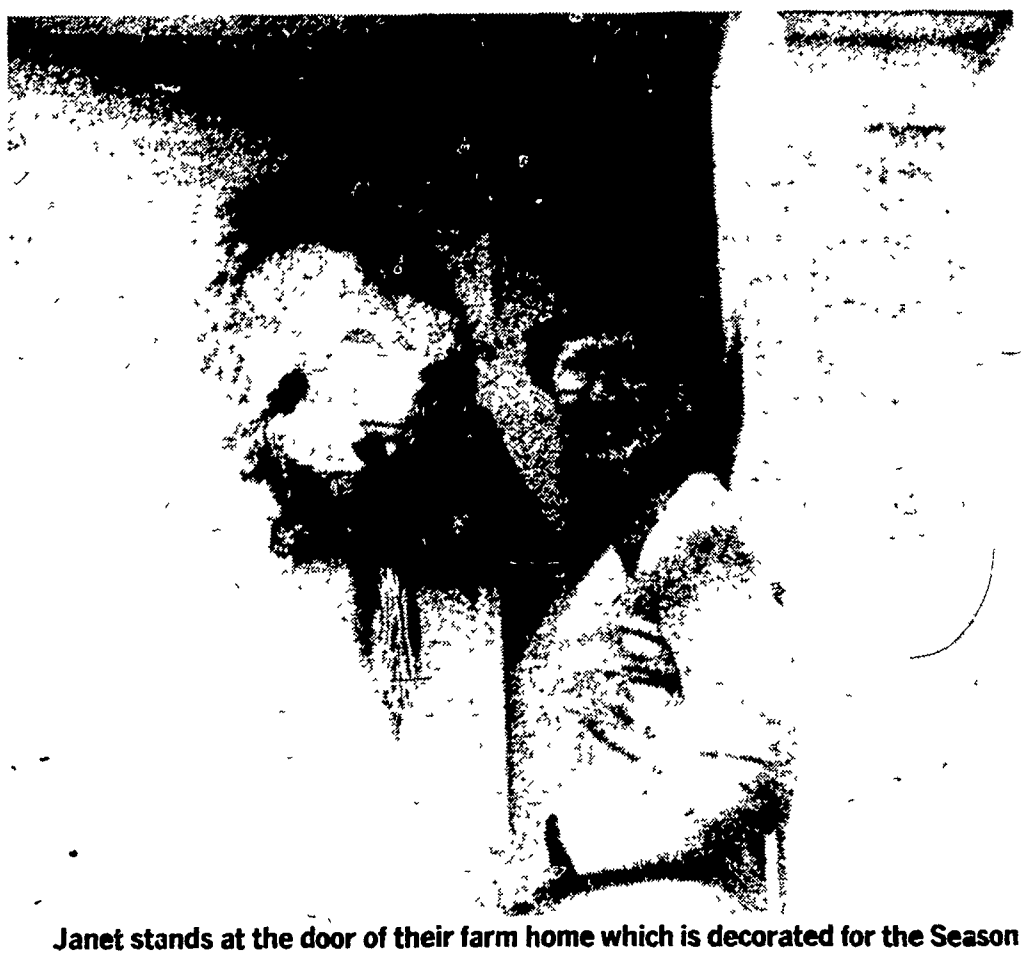
Homestead Notes



A wreath, a welsh fan, and a mordiford decorate the wall of the Buchen family room. Janet made them all from wheat in a craft that is a traditional form of Thanksgiving for a good harvest.



Janet stands at the door of their farm home which is decorated for the Season with one of her baler twine wreaths.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

Being called for jury duty is a waiting game.

When I received my notice from the Sheriff's Department, I knew that anytime during the following year I might be called to the court house in Lancaster.

After one is called, they might sit for days just doing handwork and waiting in the jury selection room. Sometimes one is challenged in the courtroom and not chosen to serve but rather sent back to wait some more.

People come from all walks of life and give a week or more of their time. Some come reluctantly, some fearfully, and some anticipating a new experience.

The human drama has many sides and all sides are exposed in court trials. One hears of great tragedy and also of human kindness. To be a judge is a great responsibility and to be on a jury deciding which statements are true is just as great a responsibility.

No communication may take place between a juror and his or her family in relation to the case being tried. No newspapers may be read concerning the case.

It is nerve-racking and causes tension but it is necessary in our form of government in order that everyone receives a fair trial.

Even recesses can be tedious. While the judge and lawyers confer, the jurors sit silently in a locked room waiting until all the evidence is presented before any discussion may take place.

While locked in on a case in Criminal Court, we were told we could order any food we wanted while we were deliberating. One o'clock came and it turned out to be true—if you only wanted soup and a sandwich. Sometimes, one learns later that the newspapers knew much more about a particular case than the jurors did. It was truly a different experience.

Then, I had to ask to be excused the last day, as my sister died in Pittsburgh and there were many arrangements to be made here in Lancaster County as the undertaker was not a local man; but, I had seen and felt enough to satisfy my curiosity.

Chinese Cards

Chinese sheet-dice, dating back to the 10th Century, are believed to be the first "playing cards." Others were derived from Chinese paper money and it is thought that some of the earliest card games were played with actual bank notes.

Make inexpensive baked Christmas ornaments

LITITZ — Christmas ornaments can be crafted inexpensively from staple household ingredients. This ornament recipe was submitted by Mrs. Carolyn Hess, 825 E. Newport Road, Lititz, Pa. A note of warning: do not eat the decorations.

1 cup salt
1½ cup water

Mix flour and salt together. Add water slowly, mixing as you pour. Use caution, if adding more water. Knead dough 7-10 minutes. Roll out dough on lightly floured surface, ¼ inch thickness.

Cut out ornaments with cookie cutters or hand made patterns, using a sharp knife.

Arrange the "cookies" on baking sheets, making sure to put a hole in the top of the ornament for hanging before baking

Bake at 300-325 degrees F until hard, but not brown. Paint, or brush with paste, and paste on cut out napkin designs.

Brush with diamond dust or other glitter. Hang ornament on Christmas tree, or elsewhere as desired.

RUTH ANN BENEDICT
Staff Correspondent

CHAMBERSBURG - The Franklin County Extension Homemakers held their Annual Christmas Program on Thursday, November 15, at the St. John's United Church of Christ, Lincoln Way East, Chambersburg. Over 200 homemakers attended the program entitled "Christmas Extravanganza."

Mrs. Rhoda Oberholtzer of Stauffer's of Kissel Hill, Lititz, started the morning program with a presentation called "Christmas from Heart and Hands." Her colorful demonstration consisted of some fifty arrangements on mantel and table decorations, and door designs. She concluded her presentation with several arrangements forming a scripture interpretation of the Christmas Story.

Oberholtzer teaches and demonstrates in the media of fresh, silk, permanent, and dried flowers and foliages. She is the manager of the Floral Design Department which supplies floral design for their storees at Stauffer's of Kissel Hill.

The second morning presentation was by Mrs. Judith Pheil on "Holiday Appetizers." Pheil, back to this years program by popular demand, presented to the homemakers group recipes that she has found to be her favorites. Several of the finished products were on display. Most of the appetizers Pheil presented were made with creme cheese or of some other variation of cheese.

Judith Pheil, a native of Franklin County, is from Chambersburg. She received her degree in Food and Nutrition from Hood College and is a retired Food and Nutrition Specialist from the Maryland Cooperative Extension Service. Now as a Food and Nutrition Consultant, she judges at many fairs and food contests.

During the lunchbreak, the homemakers feasted on the dozens of cookie favorites supplied to the group by the eighteen homemaker groups of Franklin County. Also at lunch, the group had a chance to view several display tables of handcrafted items for Christmas. These display tables were also completed by several of the Franklin County Homemakers Groups.

Two presentations completed the afternoon program. Nancy L. Hogg, Chambersburg, and Eleanor L. Garris, Shippensburg, both Home Economics at the Franklin County Cooperative Extension Service presented "Gifts for Giving." These presentations included illustrated talks on simple and easy gifts you can make for Christmas. They displayed gifts such as a walker tote bag, a yarn tree, pocket toys, lemon candle and citrus wreath centerpiece, a stocking snowman, a sofa sewing cradle and a turkey on a pineapple. Directions for making these gifts were made available to the homemaker groups.

CHRISTMAS NAVELS ARRIVE

The popular navel orange is arriving in excellent supplies for the Christmas season. The navel crop is bigger than last year's and there will be a good range of sizes. A good supply of fresh lemons should also be available during the holiday period as shipments from the desert areas of Arizona increase.

The navel orange has long been a favorite for stocking stuffers, fruit and nut bowls, ambrosia and other Christmas desserts. Consider fruit also as a perfect holiday gift for friends. Pack in a pretty basket, salad bowl or other houseware item for "a gift to keep and a gift to eat."

Many markets will be offering gift cartons of navels, all ready to put beneath the tree. What could make a better present - bright, attractive, and best of all, nutritious!

HOW TO ESCAPE FROM HOLIDAY TOYMANIA

If you've experienced the daily additions to your child's Christmas list each time a new toy is advertised on TV, you've experienced holiday toymania. One of the least desirable effects of television is the impact too many commercials can have on a pre-schooler's mind, especially during the pre-holiday season. A young child is not old enough to realize he won't automatically acquire all the toys and experience all of the fun and excitement that are claimed in the ads.

It might be best for parents to shield a young child at least partly from the bombardment of television commercials. Some commercials show only one side of a product, especially if that product is a toy. The commercial frequently does not show the limitations of the toy or depict the actual size of the item Unusual camera shots and advertising gimmicks can mislead the child.

Parents should also be aware of the pressure that is placed upon children to urge their parents to buy the advertised item. Commercials are used to sell the children who in turn sell their parents.

Commercials are necessary if the public is going to continue to enjoy good programming. However, it is important that parents help children understand not only the programs, but the commercials, as well. If a child asks for an advertised toy, visit a store together to see if it meets expectations. Discuss the price in relation to other toys. Is it a good start for a child as a conscientious consumer.

SELECTING SCISSORS FOR SEWING

*The best quality shears and scissors are made of hot hammer-forged steel. The blades are hardened and tempered to take a sharp edge and nickel or chrome plating prevents rusting.

*Look for blades joined with steel screw rather than a rivet.

*Open and close the blades to be certain they come together firmly and smoothly. When operated rapidly in the air, good quality shears give a high-pitched metallic sound, an indication of high-quality steel.

*Dressmaking shears are basic for home sewing. They are 7 to 8 inches in length and easy to use and heavy enough to cut most fabrics. Bent handles will allow you to cut fabrics without lifting scissors from the table top.

*General sewing scissors are 5 to 6 inches long, have medium thin blades with one sharp point and one round point to make trimming easier. They should have two ring handles of the same size that measure about one-third the total length of the scissors.

*Embroidery or buttonhole scissors measure 3½ or 4 inches long, have double sharp points and ring handle of the same size.

*Pinking shears are used for finishing seams of fabrics that will not ravel easily and will not be machine laundered.

Bicycle 4-H honor awarded to Cheri Hauger

SOMERSET - A Pennsylvania high school senior, who chaired a drive to raise $1,000 for the Pennsylvania Association of Retarded Citizens, has been named one of six national winners in the 4-H bicycle program.

Cheri Hauger, 17, Rt. 4, Somerset, received a $1,000 scholarship at the 58th National 4-H Congress held in Chicago Nov. 25-29, from The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company program sponsor.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dwain E. Hauger, she has been a 4-H member for eight years.

Each year Hauger's local 4-H club sponsors a bike hike for the Pennsylvania Association of Retarded Citizens. Participants take pledges of from 10 cents to $1 for each mile they ride. The national bicycle program winner has worked on the bike hike committee for four years.

"Until 1978, the most money our club has raised for PARC was $375," Hauger says. "But this year, as chairman, I really encouraged participation. I went to classrooms at our elementary and high school to tell what we were doing, why they should participate and how they could be helping people less fortunate than we.

"Our efforts proved successful because we raised $1,000 to present to PARC."

Hauger leads a bicycle club of her own for younger 4-H members. She also organized a new project, bike packing, for older members. This year she conducted a very succesful overnight hike campout.

A tireless volunteer, she has helped entertain patients at Somerset Community Hospital. Last summer she participated in a 4-H exchange trip to California.

IF YOU ARE NOT ALREADY COVERED BY A PENSION OR RETIREMENT PLAN, A NEW LAW NOW ALLOWS YOU TO SET UP A TAX-SHELTERED PLAN OF YOUR OWN.

Let Us Plan Your
account

The Congress of the United States passed the Pension Reform Act which allows millions of Americans who have not had the benefits of a pension plan, to put aside tax-free dollars for their retirement.

Basically, under this new law you can take money you earn now ... up to $1,500 a year ... and put it away for retirement while deducting it from your earnings at income tax time. The interest accrued each year is tax deferred.

At First Federal the interest rate will always be the highest we pay. But if interest rates change, the rate on your IRA account will be automatically adjusted.

Visit any of our seven offices for free literature that explains this tax-saving opportunity in detail. Learn how you can use a savings account to enjoy more security in your retirement years and pay less taxes right now. It's very easy.

If you're not already saving with us, maybe the time has come.

Delmarva corn conference to feature energy

OCEAN CITY, Md. - On-farm fuel efficiency will be the main topic covered when Delmarva corn growers gather Wednesday, December 12, at the Convention Hall in Ocean City, Md., for their 6th annual Corn Technology Conference.

The day's program will feature a talk on Increasing Farm Fuel Efficiency by Louis I. Leviticus, director of the University of Nebraska tractor test lab. This is the only lab of its kind in the country.

Another presentation which should be of interest to area corn producers will be a report by Ed Ralph, executive director of the Delmarva Poultry Industry, Inc., on broiler industry corn needs in the 1980's.

There also will be talks on the pros and cons of home-grown fuels, what's new in corn fertility research, and corn storage on the farm from both an engineering and an economic standpoint.

Master of ceremonies for this year's meeting will be Cotton Ivy, a humorist from Decatur County, Tennessee, who's billed as the "new Will Rogers."

Doors will open for exhibits, coffee and donuts at 8:30 a.m. The main program begins at 9:20. The meeting will adjourn at 3:30 p.m. There is no registration fee and the meet is open to the public. For complimentary lunch tickets or additional information, contact your county extension agent or local agribusiness firms.

The event is sponsored by the Cooperative Extension Services of Delaware and Maryland and by members of the agribusiness community.

case 4-WHEEL POWER DESERVES 4-WHEEL STEERING

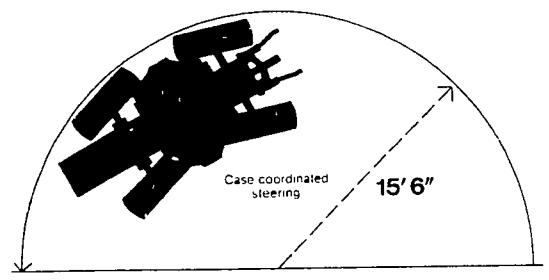
COMPARES TO LARGE 2-WHEEL DRIVE EFFICIENCY
IDEAL FOR CORN HARVESTING OPERATION

Case does it all! If you have a large farm, you've probably thought about 4-wheel-drive power, but were afraid you'd have to sacrifice 2-wheel versatility and maneuverability With Case you can enjoy both First of all, with the 2670 you can get a 3-point hitch as well as independent power takeoff for your row crop farming needs Plus 4-way, 4-wheel steering that works equally well for tillage, row crop and pto jobs

Make molehills out of mountains. Trying to till on a hill side is tough Most tractors and implements tend to drift sideways downhill, and you must constantly correct for that drift With Case crab steering, you just flip a lever in the cab, then edge all four wheels slightly uphill, continuously compensating for the drift

Get hitched fast. Just flip the control lever to rear wheel steer You can maneuver right up to your implement, and with the optional quick coupler be hooked on and moving in seconds With the inching pedal, you have positive control even in the confines of a machinery shed

Tight Spots? Not with Case! Get in too close to a fence? Or maybe just trying to get that big tractor and wide implement through a narrow gate gets you all tied up? Not so with a rigid frame Case Use coordinated steering for tight turns, or crab steering to pull away from a border, fence or ditch, or trying to line up a forage unloading box with a blower When you pay for 4-wheel-drive power, you deserve this versatility and maneuverability



Can the articulated 4WD turn this sharp?

Late Monday afternoon a tornado-like storm destroyed a hog barn on the property of Menno Wenger, Penn Valley Road. This was the scene Tuesday as the job of cleaning up begins.

LITITZ — A tornado-like storm hopscotched across Southeastern Pennsylvania Monday causing scattered damage on several farms.

Worst hit was the hog operation of Menno Wenger, Penn Valley Road, Lititz.

The high winds blew most of the roof off Wenger's 40 by 200 foot one-story cement block hog barn.

His son, Menno Wenger, Jr. lives on the farm and manages the operation.

Although the barn was loaded with 730 pigs at the time of the accident, fewer than half a dozen hogs were killed.

The tornado apparently entered through the back wall of the barn. It knocked out several blocks in the wall and continued through the building, lifting off the roof.

Debris was spread across neighboring fields.

Most of the Eastern end of the building was destroyed. Portions of the roofing material could be seen dangling on power lines 50 feet from the barn.

Other parts of the roof and supporting trusses collapsed into the building

Lititz firemen were called to the scene at 5:29 p.m. Twenty-five firemen on two trucks spent more than four hours clearing away the mess.

Firemen cut a path through the wreckage, using chain saws, in order to allow the pigs to be loaded onto trucks.

Elsewhere, in northern Lebanon County, several smaller sheds were reportedly destroyed or blown down by the high winds

A warehouse near the Lancaster Stockyards lost its roof

The National Weather Service did say it had received several unconfirmed reports of a tornado in the Lebanon area.

But they added that a tornado would be unusual at this time of year.

While parts of the roof blew off completely, other parts collapsed straight down on top of the pig pens. Photo by Kay Gibble.

Investigators theorize that the winds knocked out this cinderblock wall and surged in to the barn causing the roof to blow off. Photo by Kay Gibble.

Debris from the roof is strewn about in front of the barn. Lititz firemen were on location for 4 hours helping to clear away the wreakage so that the 730 pigs could be removed. Photo by Kay Gibble.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

For years, those hats had gathered dust around the house.

A green hat would fall off the hook and hit me on the head each time I'd grab a coat from the hall closet. Keeping watch over the basement from atop the laundry shelf was the blue one. Quietly hiding in the toybox, keeping intimate company with three wooden blocks and a few bits of tinkertoys was a gold-colored one.

From generous seed corn, feed, fertilizer and bull semen companies the cheerful, bright hats with their appropriate advertising had rolled in. But, wearing the hats had always given my farmer a mild headache and so they had mostly just hung - or fell - throughout their existence in one corner or another of the house.

Suddenly, for some mysterious reason, that has all changed.

And, now the hats are giving me a headache.

Why? Because he's begun wearing them. So, minutes after one is placed on his head, it's become so gosh-awful dirty you'd declare he'd worn it for doing somersaults through a mud puddle.

In order for a head covering to be a genuine, authentic "farmer's cap," it's got to acquire the patina of "character." And wives tinkering with hats that have been broken in is frowned upon.

Some of the "character" rubbed off the cows as he leaned his head into their sides during milking. Another layer was added from the hay, silage and corn dust that settled on the hat during feeding, while the black polka dots scattered liberally across the brim came from the grease and oil of routine machinery maintenance.

Last week I discovered not one, but two, dirty hats momentarily abandoned in the basement. I triumphantly grabbed them, stuffed them into the bottom of the washer and buried them under a pile of dirty jeans and coveralls.

York Countian earns petroleum scholarship

EAST BERLIN — A Pennsylvania youth has been named one of six national winners in the 4-H petroleum power program.

Joey Welsh, 17, Rt. 1, East Berlin, received a $1,000 scholarship during the 58th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 25-29 from Amoco Foundation, Inc., the program sponsor. Winners were selected by the Cooperative Extension Service.

Welsh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Welsh, Jr. An eight-year 4-H member, he is a senior at York County Area Vocational-Technical School.

Welsh finds plenty of opportunities to apply the skills he has learned in the petroleum power program on the 400 acre family farm.

Welsh operates the farm's five tractors and keeps them in tip-top running condition. He also takes care of a snowmobile, roto-tiller, motorcycle and lawn mower plus other farm equipment.

"A poorly operating tractor engine can waste up to 30 per cent or more of its fuel per day," he says. "A farmer continually works with a slim margin of profit and proper equipment care is an important factor in increasing his profit."

Welsh excels in safety demonstrations covering a range of subjects – tractor, rifle, snowmobile, smoke detector, automotive, recreation, health and fire. Last year he was named a county winner for his demonstration on push lawn mower safety.

He gets much satisfaction as a teen leader. "I got to share what I have learned," he says. "This is very important to me."

An accomplished photographer, he has had several of his pictures published in the York Dispatch and the Free Press.

There's a better way to dry grain. It's called CHILLCURING™ because it means CURING without heat. Here's what the talk is all about.

THE GRAIN

Every kernel of grain is alive when it comes out of the field. It is a seed, able to grow because it has the ability to take on moisture. Likewise, it can be kept in a state of preservation by removing the moisture already in it

But by heating the grain to dry it, the seed life is destroyed.

By removing heat and moisture from the grain, it becomes dormant, and stays alive Then it can ripen to full weight, losing only water while keeping valuable protein, starches and sugar

THE SYSTEM

It's simple Grain goes from the field right to the bin With the unique AIRFRAME™ and AIRFLOOR™ the grain rests on a solid bed that allows maximum ventilation.

Clean dry air is the best curing medium for the grain GRAINLAMPS™ provide electric sunshine, cleaning and drying the air beneath the floor, before it passes through the grain

Fans force air under the floor Rising through the grain, this dry outside air carries away moisture and heat

At the peak of the bin a jumbo 40" turbine, the WHIRLCOOLER™, puts nature to work for you Wind and rising air keeps it turning, venting the system naturally

A special HARVESTAT™ Control System monitors the curing process A simple setting controls the GRAINLAMPS™ to make use of free, natural air

THE FACTS

1. You can't beat Nature. HARVESTALL GRAIN CHILLCURING™ uses the same elements that ripen and preserve grain if left to itself: free flowing air and infra red rays (sunshine).
2. CHILLCURING™ has been tried and proven in 17 states on over 3000 farms. The research is in: CHILLCURING™ WORKS!
3. The CHILLCURING™ system uses only the electricity to power fans and lights, using about 1½ KW hrs. per bushel. Compare that cost to other systems that use increasingly expensive fuels to get disappointing results.
4. The grain goes from the field to the bin and stays there till you need it Save time and money at harvest with the one step HARVESTALL CHILLCURING™ and storage system.
5. If you're in the market for grain storage, you owe it to yourself to look further into HARVESTALL GRAIN CHILLCURING™

ing away from home, with Sheri, 17, a senior at Manheim Central High School. Janet says, "I have always enjoyed crafts and I do a lot of knitting, crotcheting and needlepoint."

Her collection of decorated eggs is extensive and beautiful, and it is this craft which she was first asked to teach at Stauffer's. "I gradually got into other crafts," she says.

As one looks around her farm home, there is evidence everywhere of the wide variety of crafts she has mastered. She said that she designed and introduced the baler twine wreath for teaching at Stauffer's. "I had seen one, and I thought it was a good way to use leftover twine. It took me a while, but I kept track of the measurements. It is still popular and can be used throughout the year. I like to add greens to mine for the holidays."

Tinsel painting and theorem painting are two of her accomplishments, along with "rubbed out" painting. This involves painting a picture with burnt umber oil paint on masonite, and then "rubbing out" portions of it with a Q-tip or brush dipped in turpentine. The results are beautiful.

She has made apple head dolls, complete with bead eyes and teeth, and corn husk dolls. Her walls are graced with several beautiful scherenschnitte pictures she has done.

As we conducted the interview, Janet casually mentioned that she is working on crotcheting delicate decorations for her Christmas tree this year.

Although she is modest about her accomplishments, Janet's work is beautiful. The wheat weaving she creates is a lovely addition to any holiday home, and a fitting tribute of thanksgiving for the good harvests this County has enjoyed.

Grangers urge funding for vo-ag

LANCASTER — "To insure equal educational opportunity in our public schools, we will work with the new-established Department of Education," said delegates attending the National Grange convention here.

"We feel that the top priority of the Department of Education should be local and state determination of educational needs such as improved curriculum, stricter discipline, upgrading teaching staffs, and cutting down on excess supervisory personnel," stated the Grange delegates.

The Grange is opposed to massive busing of school children for any reason other than quality education.

The nation's oldest farm organization sees agricultural education as essential in public schools in order to train young farmers and educate all citizens about agricultural life. The Grange urges adequate funding for vo-ag education and that it be made available on a 12-month basis. The Grange favors state and national vocational advisory boards that would include members who are active in agriculture.

Nutrition education is needed in public schools to combat the poor performance by children who lack proper nutrition. The Grange supports scientifically sound nutrition education assisted by the Department of Agriculture and also sponsored by privately-funded organizations.

In resolutions dealing with national health, the Grange favors asking each state to set the age of 21 as the minimum age for consumption of alcoholic beverages The Grange calls for more educational programs concerning the harmful effects of marijuana, drugs and alcohol.

They are against legalizing these drugs except for medical reasons and support stronger enforcement of present laws. The Grange opposes a national health insurance plan other than catastrophic coverage and this should include private enterprise.

To assist in educating and alerting parents and community leaders to the problems and dangers in pornography distribution, the Grange supports Morality in Media, Inc. They also urge vigorous enforcement of obscenity laws The Grange requests the Congress and the FCC to intensely pursue regulatory controls to effect higher standards in television and radio programming.

New small grains report includes wheat, rye, oats

WASHINGTON, D.C. - A new Small Grains report, set for publication Dec. 21 by the agriculture department's Crop Reporting Board, will replace the Winter Wheat and Rye Seedings report originally scheduled for Dec. 21 and a portion of the Crop Production report to be issued Dec. 11.

The Small Grains report will include estimates of acreages seeded to 1980 winter wheat and rye, and indicated production of the winter wheat crop by states and classes.

The new release also will include summaries of 1979 acreage, yield and production of wheat, oats, barley rye, and rice (by length-of-grain classes), and revised estimates of these items for 1978, previously scheduled for release in the December Crop Production report.

The Potato Stocks report, to be issued Dec. 14, will carry data on potato size, harvest loss and hills per acre originally announced for release in the Crop Production report of Dec. 11.

These changes will consolidate commodity data into a single publication.

DEUTZ Wisconsin Engine
PAPEC Winco Generator

"Five years ago, when we chose the diesel engines to power our 750-acre irrigation system, fuel economy was what we were looking for and we looked at a lot of engines The Deutz diesel was by far the best on that score Other Deutz users told us they had cut their fuel bill by about 25 percent—we've done better than that They also said the separate air-cooled cylinders on a Deutz are very easy to service. I couldn't tell you about that—we've never had to repair one"—Bill Bontrager, Operations Manager Estrella River Properties, Ltd , Paso Robles, Ca

Deutz engines consume less fuel simply because their advanced design makes them more efficient They run at higher head temperatures and make better use of the fuel They are more dependable, longer-running because of their solid quality and superior cooling system About half the causes of downtime in liquid-cooled engines are attributable to breakdowns in the cooling system In air-cooled Deutz diesels, there can be no freeze-ups or boil-overs, no broken water hoses, no water-pump failures, no cavitation, none of the problems liquid-cooled engines are heir to

Throughout the world, wherever the going is toughest, Deutz air-cooled diesels are going strong

Farm Talk

Jerry Webb

Nutritionists continue to tell us that we eat too much junk food, that we consume a lot of empty calories, that we're overweight, overfed and malnourished What a sorry state of affairs.

No doubt our lack of good nutrition affects our daily lives, but most of us don't know that, so we go along eating and drinking as we do and hoping that everything turns out all right. After all, good nutrition is a problem only for mothers with small children, isn't it?

Remember when Mom used to make us drink all that milk and then when we got big enough we started drinking those great-tasting other drinks and we forgot all about milk. So here we are, the best-fed nation in the world according to government statistics, and yet our nutrition is a disaster.

The dairy industry tries and tries to convince the consuming public that milk is good for us. We never outgrow our need for milk, so the slogan goes. Milk is a natural, the advertisement says, and yet when we pause for that refreshing beverage most of us reach for something else.

If milk were sold in pop-top cans and if it were called something very modern sounding, would we drink more it it?

But milk is milk, and by law it must be sold that way. There isn't much the processor can do to change it. Things can't be added to it or taken away from it to give it a different flavor or a different look, and I guess it can't be packaged in any form other than the current styles.

Dollar for dollar there just isn't any comparison between milk and the myriad of soft drinks. Milk supplies protein, calcium, B vitamins, plus vitamins A and D which are added to most milk products.

In fact, it's difficult to get calcium from sources other than milk and it's needed not only to develop strong bones and teeth, but also to help muscle development and coordination, the transmission of nerve impulses, and to help the body fight infections and improve blood clotting.

And what does a soft drink do for you? Or a beer for that matter.

Consider the tough, macho man drinking his foaming beer in a TV commercial. Now compare that to a guy drinking milk. Somehow the image just isn't there, even though the nutrition is.

Maybe milk's whole problem is its packaging. If it could be bought in six packs, maybe the kids would start drinking it again. Then we could find cans and bottles along the roadside that say milk instead of all those other beverages, and you could stop at a service station and get it out of a machine or find it readily available in restaurants and other eating and drinking places.

As good as milk is for you, it does have a couple of inherent problems that producers, processors, and die-hard consumers must constantly consider.

One is the whole process of keeping it pure and fresh.

The industry has pretty much licked the off-taste problem that used to be so common in milk–things like onions and garlic and cardboard.

The matter of freshness is still a problem. You buy one pint of milk on its way to going sour and you're not apt to want another one real soon. Milk does have a certain shelf life and nowadays that information is stamped on the container. But still you can bring home a gallon that won't make it through the week.

The technology is available to extend the shelf life of milk up to several months, even without refrigeration. But for some reason that hasn't caught on. Before the beverage-consuming public is going to get too excited about a return to milk, that whole freshness problem will have to be licked.

Milk drinkers are entitled to the same uniform flavor in every container that the soft drink consumers get. They're also entitled to containers that are easy to open and that don't leak.

One final thought on America's milk drinking. Efforts to cut the cost of milk consumption by adding powdered milk and other products that hurt its flavor are self-defeating. I once listened to a skillful homemaker describe how she was able to mix dry powdered milk with fresh milk in a blend that her children were hardly able to detect.

What a triumph! This was a lady with a substantial family income who could well afford the price of fresh milk, but in some kind of an economy move she foisted off on her children this mix that saved a few pennies and probably ruined their concept of what milk really tastes like.

I'll bet her children don't drink milk at all anymore.

USDA invites comment on reconstituted milk pricing

NEW YORK, N.Y. - Dairy farmers, milk handlers and consumers have until Jan. 15 to submit additional proposals for review at a possible hearing on the pricing of reconstituted milk under all federal milk marketing orders.

U.S. Department of Agriculture officials also will accept comments on whether a hearing should be held on the reconstituted milk issue.

P. R. Smith, assistant secretary of agriculture for marketing and transportation services, said a hearing has been requested to consider removing reconstituted milk from the Class 1 pricing provisions of the orders. Reconstituted milk is formed by combining whole milk powder or nonfat dry milk with water.

Currently, all milk products used for fluid consumption are priced at the Class 1 level, the highest-priced class under the federal milk orders.

Smith said the hearing was requested by the Community Nutrition Institute, a nonprofit organization specializing in food and nutrition issues, and by a fluid milk processor and three individual consumers.

Changes in the milk orders, Smith said, must be based on evidence received at a public hearing. Handlers, producers and consumers may testify at the hearing. Any changes finally adopted by the department must be approved by the dairy farmers who would be affected before the changes can be put into effect.

Federal milk marketing orders set minimum prices which milk handlers or dealers must pay farmers for milk as it enters the marketing system. The orders do not set retail prices. Milk order programs are authorized under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act.

Information on the hearing request and procedures for submitting proposals and comments are scheduled to appear in the Nov. 16 Federal Register. Comments and proposals with three copies, should be sent to the deputy administrator, Marketing Program Operations, Agricultural Marketing Service, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250.

Lebanon ASCS opens 1980 cost share program

LEBANON - The Lebanon County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee is announcing the opening of the 1980 AC Program.

The Agricultural Conservation Program is a soil-saving, pollution and water controlling program. It helps farmers to conserve not only their soil, but also the water which falls on their land.

Individual farmers form a partnership with the Federal Government under which each shares approximately half of the actual cost of carrying out practices which conserves the Nation's agricultural soil, controls pollution and helps achieve rural clean water goals.

With a fast growing population and shrinking agricultural acreage, conservation is a serious aspect. Agricultural land and water resources must be used, managed, and conserved. Conservation measures can be accomplished by the man who controls the land, ASCS said.

Here are the conditions under which cost-sharing is available.

Request must be filed before practice is started.

A narrative of practice and cost-sharing is listed below.

All farmers regardless of race, sex, creed, color or national origin have an opportunity to request cost-sharing.

Cost-share limitation per person shall not exceed $3500.

Application may be made for annual, Long-Term Agreements, or Pooling Agreements.

Soil test results must be determined by Penn State.

Please note each practice as a "life span."

Apply early. Contact ASCS Office for other details.

Participants will be paid when they have earned cost-sharing. (completed practice and reported)

A practice which has been started prior to approval by the COC is not eligible for cost-share payments.

These practices are covered:

Permanent vegetative cover establishment, life span 5 years. Lime $7.30 per ton. Seed as per schedule. Fertilizer: nitrogen 11 cents, phosphate 11 cents, potash 8 cents.

Permanent vegetative cover important, is paid as above.

Proposed Farm Credit change may allow 100% loans

WEST CHESTER, — A proposed liberalization of requirements for Federal Land Bank loans would permit the Farm Credit System to do more in financing limited-equity farmers, especially young farmers, William P. Moore, director, Southeast Farm Credit Associations said here Monday.

The proposed change would exempt Federal Land Banks' farm real estate loans from the current 85 per cent loan-to-value limit when these loans are guaranteed by a Federal agency such as the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Farmers Home Administration or by a State government.

This, Moore noted, would permit Federal Land Banks to make loans for up to 100 per cent of the value of farm real estate – an important aid to farmers who do not have enough equity to meet normal down payments.

Exempting guaranteed loans from the loan-to-value limit is part of the Farm Credit Act Amendments of 1979, a bill in Congress developed and supported by the Farm Credit System and the Farm Credit Administration, the independent Federal agency which supervises the System.

The bill also would broaden the System's lending authority in other areas and make other changes in the Farm Credit Act of 1971, the System's basic charter.

Moore described the proposed legislation as essential for the System to keep pace with the growing credit needs for farmers, ranchers, and their cooperatives.

The bill aslo would: cut to 60 percent the proportion of members of cooperatives borrowing from Banks for Cooperatives who must be farmers.

This currently is 70 per cent for rural electric and telephone cooperatives, 80 per cent for other cooperatives.

It would permit Banks for Cooperatives to offer exporting cooperatives a wide range of export financing services.

It also would permit Federal Land Banks and Production Credit Associations to finance processing and marketing by bonafide producers.

The proposed change in Federal Land Bank loan requrements is needed for the Federal Land Banks to keep pace with FmHA's current shift in emphasis from making its own loans to guaranteeing loans by other lenders, Moore stated.

"The current 85 per cent loan-to-value limitation is not needed for guaranteed loans," Moore explained.

"Guarantees usually cover 90 percent of principal and interest. Like all Federal Land Bank loans, guaranteed loans are secured by first mortgages of farm real estate. The guarantees provide additional security."

HARRISBURG - Archers apparently were less successful during the regular archery deer season in 1979 than they were in 1978.

Last year at the close of the season, report cards had been returned by 4200 successful hunters, while in 1979 only 3400 successful archers had returned report cards by the close of the season.

Sixteen Delaware 4-H'ers win state awards

NEWARK, Del. - Sixteen Delaware 4-H members have been named state winners in the 1979 national 4-H awards program, according to James O. Baker, state 4-H leader. All but one of this year's winners attended the National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago, November 24-29.

Each of these young people was selected on the basis of outstanding work on a specific 4-H club project. Topics covered include: horses, leadership, public speaking, electricity, safety, conservation, foods, dairy, citizenship, swine, food conservation and safety, clothing, veterinary sciences, fashion revue, food preservation, and dog care.

The purpose of the projects is to develop leadership talents and to help participants work toward the broad objectives of character development and effective citizenship. Award winners must also demonstrate knowledge and skills in their specific project areas.

During their week in Chicago, the Delaware 4-H'ers joined about 1800 other delegates from all parts of the country. They attended meetings, heard nationally known speakers and participated in recreational activities. The awards and trips were provided by local and national sponsors.

(Turn to Page 130)

Michael Rumsey, Clayton, is one of 1979 winners in state 4-H competition. His successful swine project won his a trip to the National 4-H Congress. He was sponsored by the Delaware State Grange.

Connie Harrington, Felton, conducts a poll. A successful citizenship project won her trip to National 4-H Congress in Chicago. She was sponsored by The Coca-Cola Company.

Wanda West, Laurel, works on food preservation project that won her a place with Delaware's delegation to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago. Her trip was sponsored by Kerr Glass Manufacturing Company.

Successful dog care project won Steven Short, Seaford, a transistor radio and trip to Chicago under sponsorship of Wilmington and Mispillion Kennel Clubs.

Susan Accetta, Dover, is one of this year's state 4-H winners. A foods project was her ticket to National 4-H Congress in Chicago. Her trip was sponsored by General Food Corporation.

Brenda Hudson, Seaford, passes along some of sewing skills that went into successful clothing project which won her a place on Delaware's delegation to National 4-H Congress in Chicago. Her trip was sponsored by Coats & Clark, Inc.

Her leadership project won Jo Brown, Christiana, a Reader's Digest scholarship to this week's National 4-H Convention.

Mundis earns automotive scholarship

YORK — A 19-year-old, who can replace the spark plugs, points and condensor on her auto, has been named one of eight national winners in the 4-H automotive program.

Carol Mundis, 43 North Belvidere Avenue, York, received a $1,000 scholarship at the 58th National 4-H Congress in Chicago Nov. 25-29.

The awards were presented by The Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, sponsor of the 4-H automotive program.

Mundis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Kuntz Sr., is a high school senior and a three-year 4-H'er. She plans a career as a special education teacher.

In addition to tuning up her 1972 Ford Maverick, the York County girl has repaired a headlight on it, cleaned the engine using a commercial engine cleaner and a garden hose, rotated the tires and changed the oil.

Mundis described herself as "a city girl who never dreamed of being a 4-H member" and said she not realizes the impact 4-H has had on her life.

The 4-H'er began her automotive project by learning the basic parts and functions of an auto. "I became concerned about what I would do in case of an emergency," she said. "So I continued the project and I learned how to make safety checks."

Earlier this year she put together a demonstration entitled "Wheels" in which she told how to buy and care for an auto.

Last year, she led a 4-H automotive hazard hunt and parts identification project. "Many people, even men, could not locate the hazardous items, such as loose lug nuts, broked windshiled wiper blades and low radiators," she said.

She was in charge of a safety check lane at the county 4-H Fair earlier this year and again checked autos for hazards. She also arranged for her club to make a local auto hazard check, with fines being imposed against those who didn't pass. The fine money went into the 4-H Center Maintenance Fund.

Soybean growers support duty-free rail cars

ST. LOUIS, Mo — United States soybean growers are supporting a bill that would eliminate for two years an 18 percent duty on railroad hopper cars imported from Mexico and Canada.

H.R. 3046, written by Representatives Fithian and Vander Jagt, was introduced recently into a House trade subcommittee. More recenlty, a similar bill was introduced by Senator Lloyd Bentsen into the Senate Finance Committee.

"Because of the size of the 1979 U.S. soybean crop, coupled with a record U.S. corn crop, the American Soybean Association is concerned that U.S. railroads will be unable to move U.S. soybeans to the ports in time to meet the needs of our international customers," said ASA President Allan Aves.

"Much of the lack of U.S. rail capacity can be traced directly to a shortage of hopper cars needed to move soybeans and grain to the ports."

In a letter to the bills' strongest critic, Representative Daniel Rostenkowski, Aves said, "At the present, domestic manufacturers of rail cars are operating at full capacity, but there is still a backlog of 130,000 rail cars on order.

"Even without additional orders it will take at least two years to meet the current demand for rail cars. Access to additional rail cars is vitally important to agriculture's transportation needs."

Manufacturers in Canada and Mexico have the combined capacity to ship up to 12,000 hopper and gondola cars to the U.S. over the next two years.

"The current 18 percent ad valorem duty charged on such rail cars makes it uneconomical to import the Mexican and Canadian cars into the United States," Aves said.

Passage of H.R. 3046 would eliminate this inflationary and unnecessary tariff and allow domestic railroads to afford to import the needed cars from Mexico and Canada. In turn, the additional cars would help to alleviate a very serious situation in the agricultural sector," he said.

Concert from domestic rail cars manufacturers that importation of rail cars will have a serious impact on their industry and American workers is unfounded according to Aves.

"There is no indication that removal of the import duty would have any negative impact on U.S. manufacturers or American workers." he said.

"Since over 50 percent of the components of the imported cars would be American-made, there is every reason to believe that a lifting of the duty would generate increased domestic manufacturing and employment," he said.

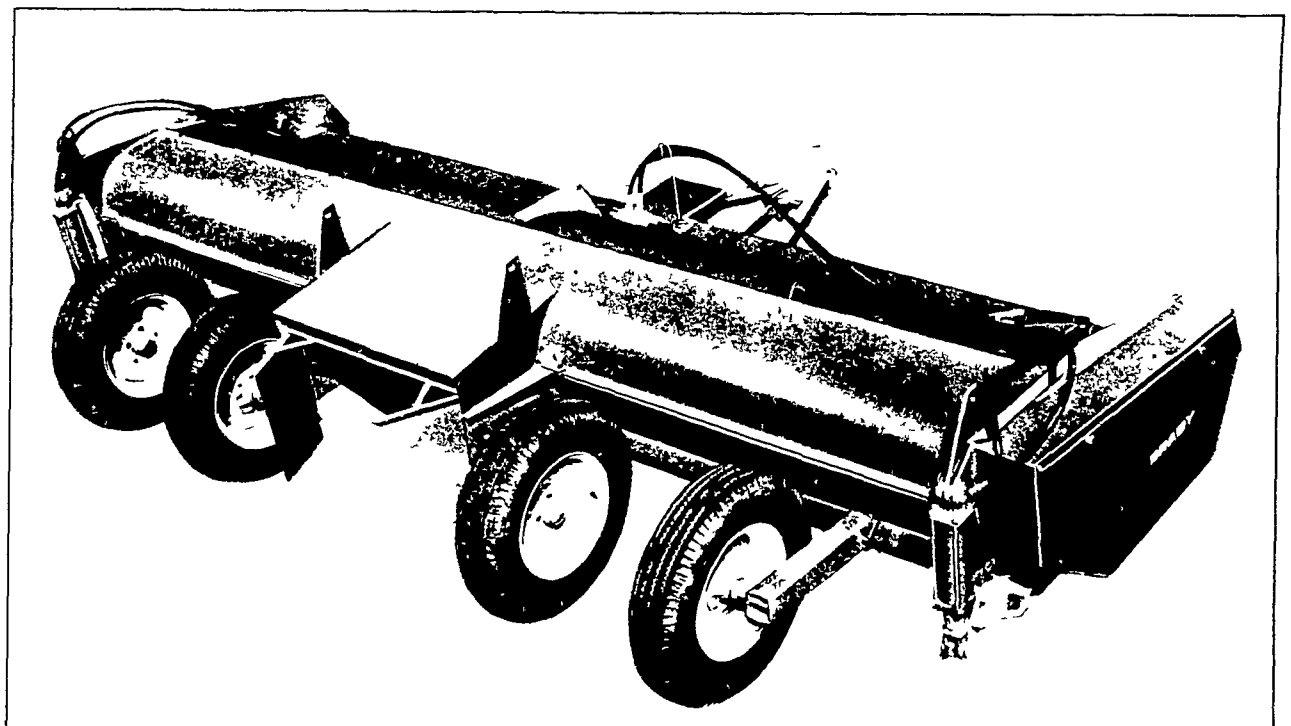
BRADY® 630
STOVER SAVER FLAIL WINDPOWER



THE BRADY 630 FLAIL WINDROWER — THE NEW LOW-COST WAY TO HARVEST STOVER, CORN OR MILO STALKS FOR VALUABLE CATTLE FEED OR BEDDING.

The Brady 630 Stover Saver Windrower cuts a 14 foot swath (six 30-inch rows or four 40 inch rows) and lays down a uniform windrow Use your forage harvester, conventional baler, large round baler or stack wagon to pick up windrow for fast, high capacity harvesting of corn or milo stalks

Follow right behind the combine or other grain harvesting operation to put four wide or six narrow rows into a windrow Pick it up with your forage harvester for a nutritious, ensilable feed for cows or a growing ration for young stock

For fast harvesting of low cost cattle feed or bedding, windrow the dry stalks and bale with your conventional baler or big round baler—or make stacks over twice as fast with your stack wagon

The P T O driven flails cut and lift the crop into the 14 inch diameter cross auger The new, improved forward pitch flight ing on the auger increases capacity, delivering the material to the center for discharge through the adjustable windrow forming doors The shape of the windrow can be controlled—a particularly important feature when using a large round baler

Use the Brady 630 as a stalk shredder by merely opening the two hinged covers over the auger The cut material is then discharged evenly onto the field from the rear of the machine rather than into a windrow Shredded material improves crop residue decomposition and subsequent tillage operations

Four wheels are standard equipment, adjustable for various row spacing, to float the unit over uneven ground Operating height may be controlled hydraulically

An End Transport Kit is available as extra equipment for easy transport down narrow roads

Penn State students run $150,000 Angus sale

UNIVERSITY PARK - Homework involved more than just "booking it" for one group of animal production students at Penn State. These students organized and managed a $150,000 University Angus sale as part of their course work.

"Throughout the summer and fall, a group of 42 students have been involved in clipping, photographing, and preparing pedigrees for the cattle," according to Erskine Cash, associate professor and coordinator of purebred beef cattle in Penn State's College of Agriculture.

"Although the students did not do the actual auctioning of the cattle, they were involved in all other phases of the sale."

Cash added that the students did all the work as if it were their own sale - from preparing cattle to cleaning the barn.

More than 30 head of University Angus cattle were sold, including offspring of some of the top Angus cattle in the country. PS Princess and PS Power Play, the 1978 and 1979 supreme champions, respectively, of the All-American Futurity, were involved in the breeding of several of the cattle sold.

Cash said the sale was really just a by-product of the learning experience. Managing the sale seemed to provide necessary practical experience in a vital part of the cattle business, he said.

"We evaluated our program and found the students were well instructed in the various areas of animal production, but they didn't know how to merchandise the product they had developed," Cash said.

"Cattle raising, in the final analysis, is a business, and the bottom line is selling your product," Cash said. "The sale is the culmination of a new learning experience for students interested in merchandising livestock."

"This was perhaps the best class students in this major may get," said one class member, Lloyd Pease from Susquehanna.

"I found the class very beneficial even though my interest is more in dairy cattle than beef cattle," Pease said.

"A lot of the students working the sale will make contacts with people in the business, and the students will be able to use these contacts when they're on their own.

"We also had a chance to work with some outstanding cattle," he added.

The following are students involved in the program:

Environmental physiologist joins Del. poultry staff

NEWARK, Del. — Larry A. Cogburn has joined the poultry research staff of the University of Delaware's department of animal science and agricultural biochemistry as an avian environmental physiologist.

He expects to concentrate primarily on basic research into the effects of the physical environment — especially temperature and light — as they affect the metabolism (and thus the food needs) of the broiler chicken.

Cogburn, who calls his subject bionomics, says most of the basic work on poultry physiology to date has centered around the nutritional, rather than the environmental needs of the chicken. But with the trend towards total confinement in the production of broilers, there is a great need for such environmental research.

Among other things, his work at Delaware could greatly enhance a program already under way in the department of agricultural engineering aimed at development of a computer energy model for broiler production.

So far the model concentrates on physical and nutritional (caloric) requirements, because little physiological data on the chicken has been available.

Besides conducting basic research, Cogburn will also be doing some applied research concerning environmental responses of poultry as these relate to management. Most of his teaching in the college will be limited to graduate level instruction in poultry physiology.

Cogburn holds B.S. and M.S. degrees from North Carolina State University and a Ph.D. from the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana. His doctoral dissertation concerned the thermoregulatory role of the pineal gland in chickens.

He has just completed a year of post-doctoral research at Mississippi State University in avian immunobiology.

According to John K. Rosenberger, head of the department of animal science, Cogburn's unique background should contribute much to the department's overall poultry research program.

There are very few environmental physiologists on the East Coast and only four or five facilities around the country where any work of this sort is being done on poultry.

Larry A. Cogburn has joined University of Delaware's department of animal science. He plans to study effects of physical environment on metabolism (and thus food needs) of broiler chicken.

Packer told to stop financial violations

NEW YORK, N.Y. - C & C Livestock and Packers, Inc., a meat packer at Northwick, N.Y., and its president and owner, Alan S. Canter, of Holyoke, Mass., have been ordered to stop violating financial and payment requirements of the Packer and Stockyards Act.

The meat packer purchases livestock for slaughter purposes throughout the northeastern United States and in Virginia.

The firm and Canter consented to the order and waived a hearing. They neither admitted nor denied the charges in an administrative complaint filed by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The firm and Canter were ordered to cease and desist from:

--Purchasing livestock while insolvent unless they pay the full purchase price of the livestock at the time of purchase;

–Failing to pay, when due, the full purchase price of livestock and meat;

–Failing to pay the full purchase price of livestock and meat; and –Issuing insufficient funds checks in payment for livestock.

The cease and desist order, like a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the P&S Act.

Meat packers are required under the P&S Act to maintain a solvent financial position and to pay promptly for livestock, unless credit has been arranged in advance. These are designed as measures of financial protection for the sellers of livestock.

Farm management specialist wins grassland award

UNIVERSITY PARK - Samuel A. Dum, Extension farm management specialist at Penn State, has been named winner of the 1979 Pennsylvania Forage and Grassland Council's Special Award.

A plaque, for outstanding service to the state's forage industry, was presented to the former Lancaster County farmer last week, at the Forage, Corn and Seed Conference held on the University Park Campus.

In citing his accomplishments, John B. Washko, Penn State professor emeritus of agronomy and awards committee chairman, said that Dum provides economic data for dairy farmers on production costs and economic information on forage programs to maximize profits.

The award winner also prepares economic information on growing, handling, and storaging forage crops and assists in directing the farm records program which benefits the state's livestock producers.

Dum helped revise a silage and silo publication in cooperation with Penn State dairy, agronomy, and engineering specialists. He has participated in numerous forage workshops for livestock producers.

The Penn State specialist served as editor of the "Pennsylvania Grassland News," the council's publication, and was on the organization's board of directors.

Dum, a native of Landisburg, Perry County, earned his bachelor of science and master of science degrees from Penn State. He received a doctor of philosophy degree from Purdue University.

Prior to his appointment to the Penn State faculty in 1967, Professor Dum was associate professor of farm management and assistant director of the Agricultural Experiment Station at the University of Delaware.

From 1952 to 1966, he operated a general farm in Lancaster County.

Ewe and lamb had winning combination at N. American

LOUISVILLE, Ky. - Ten-year-old Mike Wright has a surprise coming. His Dorset ewe is bringing home a ram lamb, born just hours before the Wrights were due to leave the grounds of the North American International Livestock Exposition in Louisville, KY. The lamb was born Friday morning, November 16.

On November 11, Mike had shown the ewe to Reserve Champion Ewe honors in the Junior Dorset Show of the North American. His mother, Mrs. Newt Wright, drove him back home to Ellettsville, Indiana on Wednesday so that he could get back to school. The ewe wasn't due to lamb for a couple of weeks, but even so, the little feller is "a good big lamb," says Mrs. Wright.

The Wrights manage three farms in partnership with his father, Oren Wright of Greenwood, Indiana. Last Monday, the senior Wright had a "first" for the North American. His Rambouillet yearling ewe gave birth to the first lamb ever born at the show. "We hope to bring him back to the show next year," Wright said of his ram lamb.

Again, mother is a prize winner. She placed second in her class of yearling ewes the day after the lambed. "It didn't help her" Oren Wright said. "But we placed first, second, and third and that doesn't happen often." Wright also owned the third-place ewe and the class winner belonged to another of his grandsons, Donald.

Wright has been showing sheep for 55 years. He's had a few lambs born in shows, "but not for several years." This lamb was also born early. She wasn't due until after the North American International ended.

Mrs. Newt Wright said her boys already named the Rambouillet ram "Rabbit". She said they do have quite a few fall lambs with the Dorsets and Rambouiletts.

"Melody" sings high tune for Rich Lou Farms

HOLLIDAYSBURG — "Melody", a nine year old registered Holstein, was the high scoring cow for the Blair County D.H.I.A. last month. The Rich Lou Farms' cow produced to the tune of 26,400 pounds of milk and 976 pounds of butterfat.

Beating the total volume of milk produced by the Rich Lou cow was "Hattie", a four year old registered Holstein owned by Milton Corle and Sons. She recorded a milk production of 29,027 pounds, but was slightly lower in butterfat production, with 906 pounds.

R Donna, another high volume cow, recorded a total volume of milk equalling 28,378 pounds for Lar Ann Farm. Her milkfat production was 867 pounds.

Two Blair County cows were in the twenty-five thousand pound production category last month. Harry Brubaker's registered Holstein "June" gave 25,635 pounds of milk, with 826 pounds of fat. A grade Holstein produced 25,379 pounds of milk and 921 pounds of fat for her owner Dawn Baker.

Three cows, owned by G.R. and R.D. Hoover ranked in the twenty-four thousand pound range. Cow 27, a grade Holstein, milked 24,609 pounds and gave 850 pounds of fat. Two of her registered stablemates, Cow 22 and Cow 32 gave 24,826 milk and 826 fat, and 24,253 milk and 886 fat, respectively.

Blackcrest Farms' Cow 64B let down 24,620 pounds of milk during her record, with 812 pounds of butterfat. She is a seven year old, grade Holstein.

"Muff", another grade Holstein, produced 24,896 pounds of milk and 752 pounds of fat for her owners, Charles and Mike Hoover.

Several Blair County cows had noteworthy butterfat production. Ranking second to "Melody", the top cow for the county, was Robert A. Brumbaugh's grade Holstein, Cow 1996. This cow gave her owner 971 pounds of milkfat, along with 21,100 pounds of milk.

A stablemate to this cow, Cow 1915 gave 922 pounds of butterfat and 22,636 pounds of milk for Brumbaugh.

Five cows had records of over 5 per cent fat last month. They were: Walter Keller's Cow 186, 16,501 milk and 920 fat; Mary Walter's BBLO900, 12,809 milk and 691 fat and BBL0836, 13,872 milk and 702 fat; Rodney Babe's Cow 199, 16,942 milk and 867 fat; and G.W. and R.G. Baker's Cow 176, 14,256 milk and 711 fat.

The top five farms in dairy butterfat production per cow were:

1. James Smith 2.18 pounds fat; 2. Thomas W. Kelly, 2.05; 3. G.W. and R.G. Baker, 2.02; 4. Raymond Diebold, 1.99; and 5. Harry Brubaker, 1.94.

Out of the total animals with 305 days or less records of over 650 pounds of butterfat, nine had over 900 pounds, thirty-one recorded over 800, seventy-seven produced over 700, and fifty-two had over 650 pounds of milkfat.

Grange supports Salt II treaty

LANCASTER — Delegates attending the 113th Annual Session of the National Grange here voted to urge the U.S. Senate to ratify the SALT II treaty. They feel the treaty will serve both short and long-term interests of the United States.

In other areas of foreign affairs, the Grange adopted resolutions commending Congress for its legislation directed toward helping the poor in agriculture throughout the world.

They encouraged the necessary funding and prompt, widespread implementation of the Title XII amendement to the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961 which offers land grant institution assistance to lesser developed countries to improve the life and productivity of small farmers.

The Grange recommends that the Secretary of Agriculture initiate countervailing duty procedures on imported dairy products when there is evidence that they are being sold below the domestic price. The Grange feels this will remove the influence of foreign governments' farm support programs. The Grange also feels there is a need for strict enforcement of inspection standards on imported fresh fruits and vegetables.

The Grange is opposed to the Commodity Credit Corporation or any other government agency becoming the sole negotiator in export sales of U.S.-produced soybeans and grain.

"While we applaud foreign agricultural market development, we continue to oppose embargoes that would disrupt contracted sales and destroy U.S. credibility as a world supplier of these products," said the Grange delegates.

They support the petition, now before the Customs Service, to return to the traditional definition for scrap tobacco. This would restore the 45¢ per pound duty to imported processed tobacco instead of the 16.1¢ duty on that which now comes in as scrap.

The Grange urges that exports of grain continue to be monitored to insure full disclosure of information concerning sales to foreign countries.

To help solve the problem of a shortage of freight cars for transporting grain, soybeans and other farm commodities to market, the Grange calls for rapid adoption of legislation to suspend the tariff on imported railroad freight cars.

Though the U.S. shoe manufacturing industry has been requesting restrictions on hide exports, the Grange considers the value of cattle hides as an important part of livestock income and a valuable asset in the balance of trade; therefore, they encourage unrestricted export opportunities for cattle hides.

The Grange also endorses the Commodity Credit Corporation export policy which, combined with granting most favored nation status to the Soviet Union and the Peoples Republic of China, will be a means of increasing grain and soybean export sales.

Penn State offers free deer hunting permit

STONE VALLEY — Free permits are available from Penn State to hunt deer in the Stone Valley Experimental Forest in Huntingdon County, it was announced recently.

The free permits help provides hunting pressure, and supply harvest information, to aid in management studies, says Dr. James S. Lindzey of the Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit at University Park. A Pennsylvania hunting license is required in addition to the permit, he added.

Permits may be obtained from the Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit in room 113 Ferguson Building at Penn State, from personnel at the Mineral Industries Camp at Stone Valley Lake, or from the boathouse checking station near Masseyburg during the hunting seasons. Permits may be obtained from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Lindzey said deer appear to be in good condition and normal numbers within the Stone Valley Experimental Forest.

Animals killed should be brought to the boathouse checking station, off the Masseyburg road, for weighing and aging. When this station is closed, bring deer to the Mineral Industries camp across the lake.

The Stone Valley Experimental Forest is reached from the east mainly on Route 305 by way of Belleville, traveling north to McAlevys Fort. Route 305 runs along the southern edge of the forest to Petersburg and Neffs Mills. A legislative route from Neff Mills, going east through Masseyburg, enters the northern edge of the forest.

To reach Stone Valley from the north of State College, take Route 26 across the mountain above Pine Grove Mills. At the foot of the mountain, get on the legislative route to the right--marked for Petersburg. This goes to the boathouse checking station.

PUT MORE MILK IN YOUR TANK WITH PURINA "TOTAL BALANCED"

Hi-O 36 or TEST COW CHOW!

★ Typical Complete Dairy Ration Or Soybean Meal and Corn with Vitamin/Mineral Premix

Many dairymen have switched from these rations. They've seen that they can't deliver all their cows require for maximum milk production. Here's why:

Low Energy Limits Production

Look at the low energy level. Like the weakest link in a chain, a cow will perform up to the most limiting nutrient. With these typical rations, it's energy. The extra levels of proteins, vitamins and minerals can go to waste. So, a cow will not milk up to her full potential.

★ Other "High Energy" Rations (competitive completes or Soybean Meal and Corn)

You'll find many feed companies jumping on the high-energy bandwagon. They've learned that energy is a key element in milk production. So, they raised the energy of their complete dairy rations, often at the expense of other essential nutrients.

Many dairymen have also decided to make a higher energy ration from soybean meal and corn. But watchout! Considering energy alone can lead to a nutrient balance trap.

Low Levels of Vitamins and Minerals Limit Production.

While these rations have higher levels of energy the limiting factor to production is their low vitamin and mineral level.

Of course, a cow might produce more the first few months of her first lactation on this ration. Trouble is, she's using her own body stores to provide needed vitamins and minerals. As those stores are depleted, a cow's milk production will drop below normally expected levels. Health problems might develop. And most important, she'll actually produce less during her next lactation.

★ Purina High Energy Milking Rations

Top milk production, lactation after lactation, depends on a balanced high-energy ration. Purina High Octane® 36 concentrate and Test Cow complete deliver high-energy without sacrificing the essential balance of vitamins and minerals.

Balanced, high-nutrient levels for maximum milk production

Purina Research has found a way to provide high-energy levels without sacrificing other essential nutrients. It comes from years of testing specific ingredients. Plus an in-depth knowledge of what your cows require.

It also comes from tough quality control standards. Purina people are sticklers for top-quality ingredients to get the correct levels of protein, energy, vitamins and minerals. So there are no "weak links" in High Octane 36 or Test Cow rations.

As an added bonus, your cows develop and keep good body condition. you should see fewer herd health problems. And, strong cows keep milking at top potential, year after year.

If you're a concentrate man, mix Purina High Octane 36 concentrate with your home-grown grains for top milk production. Or, for a complete ration, choose Purina Test Cow complete.
